'K' Asks Pact Outlawing Force In Land Disputes

Kremlin Bids For Initiative In Peace Drive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Premier Khrushchev was reported Thursday night to have proposed to President Johnson and other world leaders that they join in a pact pledging not to use force to settle territorial disputes.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk confirmed that Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin delivered Thursday a Khrushchev message to Johnson concerning "the peaceful settlement of territorial disputes."

But Rusk declined further comment on the 20-page document, saying it was in Russian, was still being translated and the U. S. government would "give it very careful study."

Similar messages were sent by Khrushchev to other government heads around the world in what appeared to be a Kremlin bid to seize the initiative in the new "peace offensive" of 1964.

Open To All Nations

U. S. sources said Khrushchev has proposed a convention, or pact, which could be signed by all nations which would subscribe to it.

The nuclear test-ban treaty also has been open to signing by all nations.

U. S. policymakers waited translation of the full text to determine complete implications of Khrushchev's proposal.

Rusk said that if Khrushchev is suggesting that territorial disputes should be settled "by peaceful means rather than by war, it would appear to be consistent with long-established policy and practice by the United States."

However, he refused to go into more detailed observations about the idea without further study.

Greetings Exchanged

Khrushchev's message came hard on the heels of friendly exchanges of New Year's greetings between Johnson and the Soviet leader.

In a cordial but short New Year's exchange made public Wednesday at Johnson City, Tex., the President called for actions in 1964 to follow up past talk about peace.

A spokesman said the President is determined to press a peace offensive in 1964 to ease the cold war even though this is a U. S. election year.

Message Unusually Lengthy

Striking quickly in the diplomatic-propaganda field, Khrushchev dispatched what Western sources said was an unusually lengthy message addressed to government chiefs around the world.

Dobrynin, bringing with "a happy and interesting new year" to the American people but declined comment on the document.

The Soviet envoy described it as a personal message from Khrushchev to Johnson.

Barry Expected To Toss Hat Into GOP Ring Today

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater, a city councilman just 15 years ago, will tell the nation Friday whether he will seek the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

The Arizona senator will announce his political plans at a news conference at 11 a. m.

Three Veterans Of World War I Perish In Fire

COLUMBIA, Miss. (AP)—Three World War I veterans lost their lives Thursday in a pre-dawn fire that destroyed a frame nursing home.

Officials said 14 others escaped the fire, believed caused by a faulty floor furnace.

The dead were identified as William Sam Blackwell, 72, of Tylertown; Arthur Landauer, 68, of New Orleans; and William H. Watkins, 69, of Clarksdale. All were trapped in their bedrooms.

State Health Department officials and fire authorities began an investigation to determine the cause of the blaze.

Hannah B. Ireland, a Negro nurse, discovered the fire when she was awakened by smoke. The nurse and Tama Williams, owned and operator of the nursing home, herded residents out of the wooden structure.

Marlin Fortenberry said later he ran to the fire and found "old men standing outside in the snow without shoes and partially clothed. None of them were fully dressed. Smoke was everywhere."

Some were quickly sheltered by a Negro woman who lived in the area and 11 were taken to a home 18 miles south of Columbia.

Bus Wreck Kills 11

MANIZALES, Colombia (AP)—A bus left the road and rolled down a hillside near here Thursday killing 11 persons and injuring 15. Police, in announcing the casualties, blamed the accident on excessive speed.

Mountain Standard Time, on the lawn of his hilltop home in Paradise Valley, an exclusive residential suburb of Phoenix.

His Senate colleagues, most political observers, and apparently his own Washington staff, are convinced Goldwater is ready to challenge New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, the only other announced candidate, for the nomination.

The senator's staff sent a telegram to Goldwater reading: "Happy Birthday, New Year and November." Goldwater was 55 on New Year's Day.

He will meet with Arizona Republican leaders briefly before talking with newsmen. For the benefit of television and radio he will read, uninterrupted, a two-page statement. Then he will call for questions.

Goldwater still will be wearing a cast on his right foot, an aftermath of surgery to remove a calcium deposit from his heel. The senator, however, probably will be able to walk unaided, tossing aside the crutches he has been using.

Cold War Break May Come This Year, Rusk Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk pictured 1964 Thursday as a year when long-deadlocked cold war issues may start moving out of deadlock.

He said the Western Allies will begin soon an intensive search for new solutions on the major issue of divided Germany, dramatized by the Berlin wall.

Rusk told a news conference there already are discussions in progress about how to keep open the tiny holes in the Berlin wall opened during the Christmas holidays.

The Western powers are seeking an arrangement which would allow East Berliners to visit West Berlin, he said, in addition to continuing to permit West Berliners to visit the East-ern section.

So far the Communists have only allowed West Berliners to come to the Communist sector, and this holiday privilege is scheduled to end Sunday.

It was Rusk's first formal news conference here since President Johnson took office. His last previous meeting with newsmen was Nov. 8.

Rusk reviewed what he termed the mixed prospects for peace in 1964.

He said Southeast Asia and Cuba present dangerous situations. But in the broad field of East-West relations, he sees hope for improvements in the new year.

"Certainly an intensive review will be made of the complex of problems known as the Germany and Berlin issue to see whether new initiatives might be promising in that situation, and that is something on which the Allied governments will be working intensively in the weeks immediately ahead," he said.

The secretary rated disarmament high on the U. S. list of peace priorities in 1964. The 17-nation Geneva disarmament conference is slated to reconvene Jan. 21.

Holiday Traffic Death Toll 232

By The Associated Press
Safety experts blamed the weather, in part, Thursday for a toll of 232 dead in traffic accidents during the two-day New Year's celebration.

The number of fatalities during the 48 hours of Tuesday and Wednesday was higher than expected, especially in the Midwest where clear, cold weather lured motorists to the highways in great numbers.

"Much of the severe weather occurred in Southern and South-eastern states which normally have low New Year's tolls," said Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council. "But this unaccustomed change tended to increase deaths there."

Pyle said at least 12 states had traffic fatality increases over last New Year's figures. The New Year holiday toll, although less than the 316 of the 48-hour Christmas holiday, was far higher than usual for a December Tuesday and a January Wednesday, which averaged 163 in the latest Safety Council statistics.

The Associated Press 48-hour count taken for comparative purposes Tuesday and Wednesday Dec. 10-11, was 170.

Four Die When Train Plows Into Work Gang

SELIGMAN, Ariz. (AP)—Four men were killed Thursday when a westbound Santa Fe freight train plowed into a work gang near Seligman in northern Arizona.

A spokesman at Santa Fe headquarters in Los Angeles said two of the men were machine operators and the other two were laborers on a railroad maintenance gang.

Cyprus Peace Meeting Set For London

Five-Sided Talks Scheduled To Open Late This Month

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Greek and Turkish Cypriots agreed Thursday night to a London peace meeting with Britain, Greece and Turkey in an effort to end the communal strife on this eastern Mediterranean island.

The meeting was arranged by Britain's Commonwealth relations secretary, Duncan Sandys. The conference will be held in London late in January, a Nicosia government announcement said.

The government added that the conference will review the four-year-old British-Greek-Turkish settlement that created the Cyprus republic within the British Commonwealth. Cyprus had been a British colony until 1960.

Announcement Confirmed

A spokesman for Greek Cypriot President Archbishop Makarios was the first to announce the meeting. A confirming announcement by Turkish Cypriot Vice President Fazil Kutchuk quickly followed.

Apparently Sandys had worked out the five-sided meeting while still in Cyprus. He flew back to London Dec. 28 after working out a cease fire between the Cypriot Greek majority and the Turkish minority, a cease fire that is still being patrolled by British troops.

Fighting between the two sides erupted two weeks ago after Makarios announced he was seeking ways to change the constitution.

The announced London meeting came a day after Makarios had announced intentions to scrap the treaties binding Cyprus to Britain, Greece and Turkey because the Cyprus government was unworkable.

Could Bring New Crisis

Any such action would raise tempers once more in Turkey, which reluctantly set aside its ancient claims to Cyprus and went along with the treaty that made Cyprus independent of Britain in 1960. Greek Cypriot Makarios' policy also could provoke new attacks by the Turkish Cypriot minority.

In Athens, the Greek Cabinet held two emergency sessions and asked for an immediate meeting of the permanent council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Paris. The council met for an hour, its second meeting in eight days.

Informed sources in Paris said the meeting was to give the council a full briefing on the Cyprus situation. Members Turkey, Greece and Britain gave the council a full report on the tense island, the sources said.

Greece and Turkey are partners in NATO but long have been divided on the issue of Cyprus. The council is expected to call on all concerned to negotiate for a peaceful settlement.

Youth, 16, Solos In Seven Planes

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Terry Gardner spent his 16th birthday New Year's Day by soloing in seven different airplanes.

The suburban Olivette youth, a junior at Ladue High School, said he will now work toward getting an automobile driver's license.

At 1:59 a. m. Thursday — all times are Eastern Standard — the flight commander, Capt. Thomas A. Cunningham, 34, of Sunset, Utah, reported his position as 660 miles west of Honolulu.

The plane was to make another report three hours later but failed to do so. Communication with the plane was lost for a time. The 5:40 a. m. arrival time passed. So did 10 a. m., when it was estimated the plane would run out of fuel.

Later, direction-finding equipment in Hawaii started picking up a continuous tone as from a high-frequency set.

Then the confusing reports started coming in.

Huge AF Plane Carrying Nine Down In Pacific

HONOLULU (AP)—A C-124 Globemaster cargo plane was reported to have gone down Thursday in the Pacific Ocean area 730 miles west of Hawaii. Air searchers found no trace of it.

The huge plane was reported to have run out of fuel.

All reports were negative hours after six search planes began the hunt for the four-engine plane with nine men aboard. The search was continuing.

The plane carried eight Air Force men, a Navy man accompanying the corpse of a sailor, and 22,000 pounds of cargo on a flight from Japan to the U. S. mainland.

The Air Force said SOS signals were heard in Honolulu at 10:30 a. m. and apparently were sent by an automatic transmitter.

Earlier, a spokesman said the roundabout report of the plane's plight had included the possibility of survivors. The report came from the Federal Aviation Agency control center in Hawaii by way of a control center at Fuchu, Japan. How Fuchu got the report wasn't clear.

A mystery of the air unfolded in confusing chapters after the big Globemaster, based at Hill Air Force Base in Utah, refueled Wednesday at Wake Island, then left for the 2,300-mile leg to Honolulu.

Humphrey Wins Poll For Demo No. 2 Spot

Robert Kennedy Close Second In Survey

By RELMAN MORIN

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota has topped a national poll of Democratic county chairmen as the party's best choice for the vice-presidential nomination in the 1964 elections. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy was a close second in the poll, taken by The Associated Press.

Humphrey received 185 votes and Kennedy 166.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, youngest brother of the late president, also received some votes for the nomination — indicating Democratic leaders' belief in the political magic of the Kennedy name.

The Democratic National Committee said there are "about 3,500" county, city and town chairmen.

AP correspondents received replies, by telephone or mail, from 1,429. Of these, 710 named their preferences and 719 said "Too early to say," "Haven't thought about it," etc. Others said the choice of a running mate should be left to President Johnson, assuming he is the presidential nominee.

Associated Press correspondents polled the county chairmen and other Democratic leaders during the last three weeks of December. Of more than 20 persons mentioned, the top 10 after Humphrey and Kennedy:

Adlai E. Stevenson, ambassador to the United Nations—75.

Robert F. Wagner, mayor of New York City—47.

Sargent Shriver, head of the Peace Corps and a brother-in-law of the late president—43.

Edmund G. Brown, governor of California—37.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota—28.

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut—24.

Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., assistant secretary of commerce—21.

Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri—14.

The bulk of Humphrey's votes came from the Middle West, but he had some support in virtually all parts of the nation.

In naming him, the most frequently cited reason was that a "Northern liberal" will be needed to balance the Democratic ticket next November. Much the same thinking was expressed by those who said they think the attorney general will make the strongest running mate for Johnson.

Within a few weeks of that attempt, two bomb blasts were reported at his home and the death toll mounted to 15 but Nkrumah escaped unhurt each time. On Jan. 8 last year another bomb attempt on his life was reported.

In March, five persons were sentenced to death on charges arising from the August 1962 attempt on the man whose followers call him "Osagyefo," or "The Redeemer."

Flagstaff House, where Thursday's attempt was reported, occupies several acres on the outskirts of Accra. It is among the world's most strongly fortified palaces, surrounded by four walls, each patrolled by guards.

Nkrumah's personal guard is hand-picked and comprises mostly the president's own Nzima tribesmen.

Three cardinals, previously named to go on the three-day pilgrimage, are Amleto Cicognani, Vatican secretary of state; Eugene Tisserant, dean of the College of Cardinals; and Gustavo Tesla, secretary of the Vatican Congregation for the Oriental Church.

Johnson Has Decided, Top Officials Say

Housing Program, Postal Economy Outlined To LBJ

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson was reported Thursday night by high authority to have decided on a budget somewhere around $100 billion for the next fiscal year.

And it was announced that he is sending Pope Paul VI a personal letter to be delivered during the pontiff's pilgrimage this weekend to the Holy Land.

Johnson also received details on a big new housing program to be submitted to Congress and word that the payroll and the red ink are going to be reduced in the Post Office Department.

And just before dusk, Johnson got a chance to relax. He went by helicopter to the Haywood Ranch, in which he has a partnership, and cruised Lake Travis in his speedboat.

The new budget has been hovering around $100 billion for some time — but what Johnson has called built-in increases threatened to push it to around $102.5 billion or $103 billion.

Potential Spending Slashed

Officials said the President now has been able to slash away enough potential spending to whittle the figure to the neighborhood of $100 billion.

The late President John F. Kennedy sent Congress a $98.8-billion budget last year.

As for the message to the Pope, White House press secretary Pierre Salinger announced that the chief executive signed a message to be taken to the pontiff by Sargent Shriver, director of the Peace Corps.

Shriver will be touring various Middle East countries. He leaves Washington Friday.

The pledge of postal economy came from Postmaster General John A. Gronouski, who said employment and the department deficit would be reduced without impairing mail service.

Housing Administrator Robert C. Weaver outlined to Johnson — and later to newsmen — plans to offer legislation to stimulate housing for families of all income levels. It would be spread over several years.

"Large Program"

Weaver described it as "a large and significant program" but declined to be specific about how many units or how much money is involved.

In telling newsmen of his economy pledge to Johnson, Gronouski said at this time no increase is contemplated in postal rates other than a $77-million boost for parcel post now awaiting action by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The President, who reportedly wants to get an unrelenting offensive for peace under way in advance of the November elections, was on the receiving end Thursday of a round-robin Soviet note regarding peace prospects.

Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin delivered the 20-page note at the State Department in Washington for relay to the President. The message from Johnson was similar to those he sent other chiefs of state in Europe.

Rocky Resumes Campaign With Eye On Arizona

CONCORD, N.H. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York resumes his quest for the Republican presidential nomination with one eye cocked toward far-off Arizona.

The governor is returning Friday to New Hampshire's political battleground on the day that Sen. Barry Goldwater is scheduled to announce in Phoenix, Ariz., whether he too, will seek the nomination.

Rockefeller entered New Hampshire's March 10 first-in-the-nation presidential primary. His backers indicated that they still look upon Goldwater as the governor's No. 1 opponent.

Former Gov. Hugh Gregg, the Rockefeller campaign chairman here, issued another challenge for Goldwater to meet Rockefeller in a series of public debates.

He said he was doing so on the eve of "Goldwater's long-delayed decision to announce his candidacy."

"Already it is obvious that a face-to-face clash between these two candidates could be the best medium for presenting the facts to the voters of New Hampshire," Gregg said.

Rockefeller's visit will be the third he has made since he announced his candidacy, and the first since he imposed a political moratorium after the assassination Nov. 22 of President John F. Kennedy.

He is scheduled to fly from New York City to Peace Air Force Base at Portsmouth, where he will deliver what his aides have called "a major address" before a Young Republican Club dinner Friday.

He will go to Concord, where he will spend the night, then go on a brief hand-shaking tour Saturday morning. The governor will also hold a news conference and entertain newsmen and their wives at a "brunch" before flying back to New York about noon.

President Bags Two Texas Deer

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—The Texas deer hunting season has ended and President Johnson's score over the holidays was two bucks downed.

The President went on several hunting expeditions and shot his first deer the day after Christmas.

A White House spokesman said it was a heavy one.

His second bag was on the day before New Year's, the last day of the season.

LBJ Asks Governors To Help Forge Unity

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson sent New Year's Day telegrams to governors of the 50 states urging a resolve to forge in America "a deeper sense of unity regardless of political party or persuasion" during 1964.

He wished them all "Good luck and God bless you."

As the old year ended, Johnson said, "Our nation passed through a tragic period in which our system of government faced its greatest test."

He said it was thanks to the support of "leaders like you" that "our system has prevailed through dark and dangerous waters."

Elderly Sisters Fight To Keep Hen Coop Home

HEMEL, HEMPSTEAD, England (UPI)—Two sisters, aged 78 and 85, fought back Thursday against a Public Health Service demand that they move out of the rickety, unlighted and unheated chicken coop where they have lived for 30 years.

"Nobody will take us from here," said Miss Marcella Finigan, 85, as the winter wind whipped through gaping cracks in the henhouse's wooden walls.

"It would kill us to go into a stuffy home," she said. The plight of Marcella and her sister Ella, 78, came to light when the farmer on whose land the shed stands found them in bed with colds — the first they had had since moving in, they said.

Local officials, calling conditions in the henhouse "horrible," applied for a removal order under national welfare laws and the two sisters are expected to be in an old people's home within a week.

"A place like that shed, without the remotest kind of comfort, could not possibly be a home for anybody," health officer Dr. R. S. Hynd said.

But Marcella, a native of Ireland, said she and her sister have been the happiest people on earth since the day 30 years ago when they took up squatters right on the shack.

Two Brothers Found Dead In Truck Cab

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Two brothers were found dead Thursday in the cab of a tractor-trailer parked off the toll plaza of the Delaware Memorial Bridge.

They were identified as Edward R. Huber, 37, of Big Springs, Md., and Bernard Huber, 33, of Perry Hill, Md., employees of Weber's Moving & Storage Co., Baltimore.

Bridge Police Cpl. James Zent said the men apparently pulled off the plaza to rest. Another trucker saw the men in the rig with the motor running and (thought something was wrong).

Police checked and found the police split and fumes seeping into the cab. Herbert M. Harrington, chief deputy coroner for Prince Georges County, said the deaths were caused by carbon monoxide poisoning.

Student Rocketeers Plan Probe Of Northern Lights

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Now they are working on plans to launch a four-stage rocket from a huge balloon 100,000 feet above the Pacific near Midway Island next summer. The rocket, they hope, will push a four-pound satellite — named "Searcher I" — into polar orbit to investigate the makeup of the aurora borealis, or northern lights.

They also announced plans to raise enough money — "at least $30,000 to $40,000" — to get their satellite into orbit.

For those who wonder at the audacity of the plan, the two young men offered an impressive background of accomplishment, and backing from prominent bay area citizens as well as encouragement from the U.S. government itself.

The rocketeers are Kelly MacDonald, 20, a premedical student at Contra Costa College, and David Guidici, 21, an engineering student at Oakland City College. Both live in the east San Francisco Bay suburb of El Cerrito.

In November they launched a test rocket that roared 90 miles high from a balloon over the Nevada desert.

Hot Tar Kills Four Convicts

PRATTVILLE, Ala. (UPI)—An out of control produce truck careened into a prison work yard near here Thursday, knocking over a pot of molten tar which burned four convicts to death. The truck driver also killed.

Police said the four convicts were covered with the hot tar and the truck driver died when he was trapped inside his burning vehicle.

Police said one other prisoner and a guard were injured. Witnesses said the truck was traveling at a high rate of speed when a car in front of it swerved suddenly into another lane of traffic.

The truck overturned a skidded on its side into the gang of eight prisoners, hitting a "tar pot" and hurling the scalding tar over the startled road workers.

Viet Nam Unit Fights Off Reds

BEN SUC, Viet Nam (AP)—A Viet Namese battalion of Rangers and its U.S. advisers came back from battle Thursday after surviving six hours on the verge of annihilation in a Communist guerrilla trap.

The action cost the battalion four Rangers killed and 17 wounded, including a U.S. sergeant. Thirty Rangers cut off in the fighting still had not returned.

U.S. advisers said only superb fighting discipline of the Rangers averted destruction of the battalion. The Rangers are specially trained to use the same skilled jungle tactics as guerrillas.

The action occurred New Year's Eve on the Saigon River, 30 miles northwest of the Vietnamese capital.

Brandt, Aides Consider Negotiations With Reds

BERLIN (AP)—Mayor Willy Brandt's West Berlin government made preparatory moves Thursday to approach the East German Communists on keeping the Red wall open after the special holiday visiting period ends Sunday.

Brandt had a round of meetings with officials of his government and with Erich Mende, vice-chancellor and minister of all-German affairs in the West German government, a city spokesman said.

They reportedly discussed what should be covered in a new round of negotiations with the East Germans. West Berliners hope the arrangement for passes to visit relatives in East Berlin during the holidays can be made permanent and broadened to include visits to friends.

About 44,000 Berliners beat the possible last-minute rush by speaking Creole, a dialect.

Wounded Man Under Guard In Fatal Shooting

BALTIMORE (AP) — Thomas J. Fuller, 46-year-old painting contractor under police guard in the death of Edward B. Farmer, was reported in satisfactory condition Thursday at Maryland General Hospital.

Police said they still had not questioned Fuller extensively about a restaurant shooting in which he was seriously wounded and Farmer, 44-year-old rigging firm executive, was slain early New Year's Day.

They said they received this account from others in the restaurant at the time of the shooting.

Farmer, who owned rigging firms in the Baltimore area and Daytona Beach, Fla., entered the restaurant about 3:30 a.m. with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Farmer, and Fuller's wife, Mary, 19.

They spotted Fuller sitting at the bar and Farmer walked over to him as the others went to a table and were seated. Farmer refused Fuller's offer of a drink and told Fuller to accompany him to a rest room.

The younger Farmer entered the rest room moments later, saw the two men scuffling and left when his father warned him to do so.

He heard several shots fired as he closed the door, investigated and saw his father slump to the floor.

The younger Farmer went for assistance. Fuller walked to his car, drove about 12 blocks to his home and, bleeding from wounds in the chest and leg, was found there by police.

A round-the-clock police guard was placed near his bedside at the hospital.

No charges were filed by late Thursday.

The Alaska highway cost $138 million to build.

Tawes Aide Fires Back In School Aid Skirmish

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Democratic administration fired back Thursday at a Republican sniper in skirmishing before a showdown next month over how to finance a proposed increase in state aid for schools.

Ejner J. Johnson, an aide to Gov. Tawes, termed shots by Del. Charles S. Bresler, R-Montgomery, "wide of the mark and based on misunderstanding of the state budget."

Bresler maintained that a new and more expensive form of state aid to schools could be financed without increasing taxes as contemplated by the Democratic administration.

Gov. Tawes has endorsed the program and indicated he will recommend that the legislature enact it next month along with an increase in the state income tax from 3 to 4 per cent.

The higher tax rate would yield an estimated $42 million more a year.

A figure of $16.2 million has been used as the price tag for the new aid to education formula, over which Johnson claimed that Bresler was confused.

Bresler figured that the state cost of education would rise $10 million next year under the existing formula, so the new program therefore would cost only $6.2 million.

He said the package, amounting to nearly $100 million, could be financed from existing revenue.

Morgan State Student Slain

BALTIMORE (AP) — Alexander D. Coger Jr., 19, a sophomore at Morgan State College, was shot to death shortly after leaving his date Wednesday night.

Police said they did not believe that robbery was the motive. Coger was found dead on the sidewalk between his home and his date's, which were six blocks apart. The girl said Coger had taken her home after a movie shortly before midnight. He was found less than half an hour later.

Coger was shot in the left chest and had abrasions on his face.

He had been studying business administration at Morgan and also worked nights as a nursing aide at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

A high school athlete, Coger had been approached after graduation by baseball scouts for the Baltimore Orioles and Pittsburgh Pirates.

Two Men Sentenced For Holdup Attempt

CENTREVILLE, Md. (AP) — Two Washington men were sentenced Thursday to five years in the Maryland penitentiary for an attempted holdup of a Queen Anne's county liquor store.

Judge Thomas J. Keating Jr. imposed the penalties in the county circuit court on Jonathan Jordan, 24, and Ralph Page, 29. He suspended Page's sentence and placed him on probation.

The men were convicted last October with Douglas Ray Sams, 30, of Falls Church, Va.

Tydings Support

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — John M. Whitmore, former Anne Arundel County delegate who led an independent faction of county Democrats in the last election, said Thursday he will support U.S. Atty. Joseph D. Tydings for nomination to the U.S. Senate.

Poll Discloses Marylanders Favor Lottery

BALTIMORE (AP) — An informal poll indicated Thursday that Marylanders favor a state lottery by a margin of about 7-1.

The poll was taken by WBAL-TV officials after a Dec. 17 debate on the issue by City Comptroller Hyman A. Pressman and City Council President Thomas D'Alesandro III.

Viewers were invited to write to the television station or to express their views in a ballot printed by the Baltimore News-Post.

WBAL-TV officials said a nearly complete count showed 1,085 for the legalized lottery, 135 against.

The Maryland Legislature is expected to receive proposals next month to eliminate a state constitutional prohibition against lotteries.

Pressman, who favors the lottery proposal, said he was "not at all surprised" by results of the poll.

D'Alesandro, who opposes it, said he wasn't surprised, either, because even before the debate he had found public opinion in favor of the plan.

"It is an attractive device in the light of new and higher taxes and has tremendous surface appeal," said D'Alesandro.

Maryland Briefs

By The Associated Press

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — A Crackdown on motorists who have ignored traffic tickets for moving violations has been launched by Baltimore County officials.

James P. S. Devereux, director of the Public Safety Department, said Thursday 193 warrants for 167 persons had been sent to the Department of Motor Vehicles in an attempt to catch up with the scofflaws when they apply for new license plates.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A postcard poll is being taken to determine how Baltimore City members of the Legislature feel about a state lottery for Maryland.

City Comptroller Hyman A. Pressman announced Thursday he is taking the poll of the 39 delegates and six senators. The Legislature is expected to receive at its session next month proposals to repeal an 1867 constitutional prohibition of lotteries.

BALTIMORE (AP) — More than 100 persons were treated at Baltimore hospitals Thursday for injuries suffered in falls on icy pavements.

Sub-freezing temperatures and a New Year's Day combination of snow, sleet and rain left streets and sidewalks with a dangerous coat of ice.

Sweet street and highway officials said crews had spread more than 1,000 tons of salt within 24 hours.

California Walnuts

STOCKTON, Calif. (UPI) — California produces 95 per cent of the walnuts grown in the United States with the 1963 crop estimated at 74,000 tons for the state.

There are more conventions held in Chicago than in any other city in the world.

Md. Job Rate Rises

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland's unemployment rate hit 4.7 per cent last year, Department of Maryland Security figures showed Thursday.

The rate compared with 3.6 per cent in 1957.

The department said the number of employed persons in the state rose to 705,000 — up about 10,000 from 1962.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 338 In mid-August 1863, a revolutionary new kind of weapon arrived at Charleston, S. C., straddling two railroad flatcars, covered up and closely guarded. This was the Confederate submarine Hunley, named for one of the craft's builders at Mobile, Horace L. Hunley.

As related earlier in this series (No. 232), a Hunley submarine, built at New Orleans in 1861-62 for use as a Confederate privateer, fell into the hands of the Union forces when New Orleans was taken in 1862. The captors did not attempt to put the craft into action. The Union Navy had been backward in developing submarines; it had only one, called the Alligator. It had been built at Philadelphia by a French engineer as a demonstration model.

Hunley and fellow workmen went to Mobile to build a second sub for the Confederacy. This was swamped in a heavy roll of waves during a test cruise in Mobile Bay. The U.S.S. Alligator was similarly lost in Chesapeake Bay in June 1862.

Hunley's third submersible was the one shipped to Charleston for harbor defense. Two weeks after the craft's arrival, Aug. 15, the Hunley sank at its mooring. Hunley asked and received command of his creation. An attempt to develop an electromagnetic engine for her, inspired by experimental success with electric-controlled torpedoes, delayed the Hunley's initial attack on Union ships.

Meanwhile, Confederates sent some cigar-shaped, steam-powered semi-submersibles into action at Charleston on dark nights. Their low silhouettes were their protection. Each had a concussion torpedo on a long spar to ram against a target. This (!) contemporary drawing made one appear much longer than it was. Sunken specimens raised after the war show they were short and stubby. Fittingly, they were called "Davids." (More about them here later.)

Italian Rail Service Deplorable

ROME (UPI) — Benito Mussolini may have gotten the Italian trains running on time, but his successors aren't having as much success.

Not only is one out of every two trains behind schedule these days, but they are overcrowded and uncomfortable as well.

The Transport Ministry has listed a total of 8,598 railroad cars for passenger service in Italy. But included in this are 397 locomotives, leaving only 8,201 cars for passengers.

Out of this total, a certain number is always out of service for repairs and some are so old as to be absolutely unusable.

The number of passenger cars in service is in fact only about 7,800 or 7,900.

Italy had only slightly fewer cars right after the war when the railroads carried 160 million passengers each year. Today rail travel is up to 370 million a year.

The state-owned railroads have undertaken a 10-year, $2,400,000,000 modernization program aimed, among other things at correcting this situation.

United Nations Church Center New Hallmark

By DONALD JOHNSTON
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Across the street from United Nations headquarters is a massive stained glass window depicting man's struggle for peace and brotherhood.

The window, created from thousands of faceted chunks of glass, is the hallmark of an unusual new religious institution called the Church Center for United Nations.

This $3 million, 12-story building was conceived and designed as a focal point of Christian Education in internal relations. It will serve as a "Classroom Window" on the U.N. for churches and church members throughout the United States and the world.

The center, opened in September, was initiated by the Methodist Church in 1961 with the idea that its facilities would be available to all church bodies wishing to share the work. Its ecumenical programming is carried out by the National Council of Churches through its Department of International Affairs.

The center will be a "constant Christian witness at the crossroads of the world," says Rev. Dr. Kenneth L. Maxwell, the department's executive director.

The National Council comprises 33 constituent communions in the United States.

The center's basic program is designed to give both laymen and clergymen first-hand experience at the U.N. The seminar program includes tours of U.N. buildings, attendance at U.N. sessions, and briefings by U.N. personnel and American and foreign diplomats.

Another purpose is to orient overseas-bound missionaries on conditions they face in various countries, and to provide a "home away from home" for foreign churchmen visiting the U.N. and New York.

Occupying most of the ground floor is a $100,000 chapel open to all persons in conjunction with the center's pastoral ministry.

"Our aim is to foster increasing knowledge and support of the U.N. throughout the church public of the country," says Ernest L. Inwood, director of the center's program.

He explains that "the churches are embarking on this cooperative venture because U.N. objectives are basically Christian objectives."

U.N. Secretary General Thant, at the dedication of the center, said that many provisions in the U.N. Charter conform to the tenets of all great religions.

"Your building," said Thant, a Buddhist, to center officials, "...will serve as a timely and constant reminder of the need to strive for the realization of spiritual as well as of material values."

The center's facilities include several floors of offices for rental by church and affiliated organizations, 12 conference rooms with direct audio lines to U.N. conference rooms, the Dag Hammarskjöld Lounge named as a memorial to the late U.N. Secretary General, and a library with materials on church and U.N. activities.

Special features are the only permanent simultaneous translation installation in New York City outside the U.N.—capable of handling five languages at once—and a closed circuit television line from U.N. headquarters.

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 339 Thirty months after the Rebellion spread from Fort Sumter in the harbor across the whole South, Charleston itself remained virtually untouched by the fighting. The forts taken by the Rebels between December 1860 and mid-April 1861 were augmented by harbor defenses engineered by Maj. Gen. P. T. G. Beauregard, and protected Charleston well.

The Union Navy learned by costly experience in 1862 that its best wooden warships were not equal to the task of reducing the defenses and opening up the city. It took the strongest new ironclads, and swift-moving new monitors, mounting the most powerful guns available, to show any results.

The newest rifled cannons were the invention of John A. Dahlgren, the chief of the Navy Bureau of Ordnance, who was sent to take over the attacking naval forces after other commanders at Charleston had failed. Fort Sumter, which had remained relatively undamaged under fire earlier, crumbled under concentrated, incessant fire. On Aug. 17, 1863, an estimated 950 shots were directed at it from monitors and larger ironclads, while Battery Wagner and other harbor defenses were under assault simultaneously. Shots that went astray in the bombardments hit in the city and Charleston finally felt what other important Southern cities had undergone.

Yet even with Fort Sumter a shambles, defenders stayed there, living in the ruins, and manning the remaining serviceable guns.

As indicated earlier in this series, endeavors were made to aid them with remarkable innovations: electrical torpedoes, a submarine and semi-submersibles. These were less effective than refusal of Sumter's Rebel defenders to give up as readily as Union defenders in 1861. They never surrendered.

Starling Threat To Fruit Crops

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The pesky starling is presenting soft fruit growers in three Western states with "a major industry crisis."

An industry trade publication, Western Fruit Grower, warned the starling's rapid population growth must be checked and the birds brought under effective control to protect crops in California, Oregon and Washington.

No crop is immune from the starling's assault. "Nature equips them with a digestive system of unlimited capacity, and sharp beaks to replenish it frequently," the magazine reported.

The magazine told of one central California farm that had its entire grape crop wiped out when starlings established a nesting area close to the vineyard and attacked in mass.

The starlings do their greatest damage at sunset when they gather in flocks exceeding a million birds and attack a field before settling down for the night. The starling's invasion of the West in recent years is puzzling to farmers. The birds were practically unknown in the Western States 20 years ago.

Planners To Meet At Westernport

WESTERNPORT — A meeting of the Westernport Planning Commission will be held January 9 at 7:30 p. m. in Union Hall instead of today.

Bernard Freese, planning consultant of Harland Bartholomew Associates, will outline final plans proposed for the central business district, transportation and traffic, and land use and building when Abraham Lincoln took the oath of office on March 4, 1861.

Plans will be presented for recommendation by the commission Martin Van Buren, John Tyler, and, if adopted, the report will be printed.

Dr. H. Sinclair Tait Dies At Wheeling

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI)—Seventy-four year old former Western State Hospital Supt. Dr. H. Sinclair Tait, died at his home here Wednesday.

Tait served as Western superintendent from 1951 to 1957. He was the hospital's clinical director for four years prior to that.

In 1957 Tait transferred to the Veterans Administration in Wheeling where he headed the mental hygiene clinic and treatment center.

Funeral services are scheduled Saturday in St. Mathews Episcopal church here.

There were five former presidents of the United States alive when Abraham Lincoln took the oath of office on March 4, 1861: Martin Van Buren, John Tyler, and, if adopted, the report will be printed.

and James Buchanan.

Mr., Mrs. Luther Hutter Mark Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Luther L. Hutter Sr., of 411 Holland Street, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at a family dinner given in their honor by their four sons December 28 at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. Table appointments were in the golden anniversary theme.

Mr. Hutter, a son of the late

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hutter and the former Maude H. Gearhart, daughter of the late Rev. Dr. Alfred C. Gearhart and Sophia Haas Gearhart, were married December 28, 1913 at her home in Tuckahoe, N. J. The late Rev. M. Buzzell officiated. Mrs. R. H. Champion, city sister of Mrs. Hutter, was her attendant.

They are the parents of four sons, Alfred, Luther L. Jr., and William S. Hutter, of Cumberland, and Russell Hutter, Baltimore. They have six grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Hutter have resided here since 1920 and have operated a grocery store at 301 Holland Street since 1922. Mr. Hutter started in the grocery business in Moorefield in 1909 and then was located on North Lee Street for two years before moving to the present location. For the past several years his son Luther Jr. has operated the business, although Mr. Hutter goes to the store every day.

Mr. Hutter was one of the organizers of the Retail Grocer's Association in Cumberland and has served as its president and also as president of the state organization. He is a Shriner. His hobby is collecting old coins.

Mr. Hutter is a member of the Woman's Civic Club and of the Eastern Star. Her hobbies are raising African violets and making ceramics, and she is a member of the National Violet Society.

Mr. and Mrs. Hutter have been members of First Presbyterian Church since moving to Cumberland, and are active in church affairs. Rev. and Mrs. Emil Teysier of First Presbyterian were guests at the anniversary dinner.

Do you believe in telling only the bitter truth? Tact lies in seeking out the better truth!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Better, Not Bitter Truth

Whenever you hear someone proudly state, "I don't believe in tact, I believe in telling the truth," it's time to be on your guard. There's one thing sure—you are in danger of being hurt.

We all have a choice in what we say. With just a little thought or consideration, it is possible to keep our conversation in channels that are welcome to our listeners' ears. Even in speaking of unpleasant matters, the use of tact can preclude any real offense.

Tact should never be confused with false flattery. But to seek something on which to compliment another is an entirely different matter. Very rarely does one find himself in a situation that is all bad—or with a person who has no mitigating qualities.

In the art of getting along with others, tact is a most useful talent. It is an expression of love and concern for the happiness and welfare of others.

If you wish to increase your tact, you can.

Here's one way to go about it: Don't be satisfied with just the obvious. Sharpen your eyes, sharpen your ears, deepen your understanding of others and seek to make your compliments real expressions of appreciation, respect and regard.

Keep a daily tally of your success in bolstering the confidence of others. If you will do this consciously for just one month, you will find it so pleasant a hobby that you'll make it your way of life always. And what a lovely person you will be to count as a friend!

"STEP" IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION with John Robert Powers' handy, informative booklet, "Your Steps to a Successful Career." This 5-step approach to the business of Career Building can be yours for 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent in Secrets of Charm, c/o this newspaper.

Mission Nurse To Speak At Woman's Day Service

Woman's Day will be observed at First Christian Church, 312 Bedford Street, Sunday on the theme, "God's Voice In Crowded Ways."

Miss Ruth Mitchell, superintendent of nurses at the Jackson Memorial Hospital, Bilaspur, Madhya Pradesh, India, will be the speaker at the worship service Sunday at 10:40 a.m.

Miss Mitchell, who also teaches in the nursing school at Bilaspur, has been in India since 1935 as a medical missionary of the Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) and has become known for her contributions to the nursing profession in that country.

She is a native of Washington County, Pa., but spent most of her childhood in Ohio County, W. Va. In preparation for the mission field she was registered as a nurse following training in Ohio Valley General Hospital School for Nursing, Wheeling, and also took special training with Red Cross there and at the Cook County Hospital in Chicago. She has B.S. and M.A. degrees from the University of Chicago in administration of nursing education. Prior to sailing for India she studied at Kennedy School of Missions, Hartford, Conn.

Since 1945 she has been helping with postgraduate courses for nurses in the Hindi language and for several years acted as chairman of the Mid-India Board's postgraduate committee which continuously works on improvement of advanced nursing courses in the Hindi language. She has also represented the board on the Madhya Pradesh state nurses' council and has been inspector of nursing schools in behalf of the states.

In 1946 Miss Mitchell was on loan to the Christian Medical College, Vellore, School of Nursing, for several months to help teach advanced nursing courses in English and to consult with the faculty, who were working out a program for the establishment of India's first university school of nursing in connection with the University of Madras.

In Bilaspur Miss Mitchell serves as a member of the local church council and works with other missionaries and nationals in developing the program of the church.

Church women participating in the service are Mrs. J. L. Mc-

Miss Ruth Mitchell

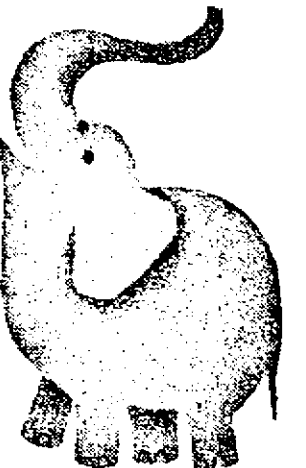

Clellan, call to worship and invocation; Mrs. Harold Frankhouser, scripture and morning prayer; Miss Lois Arnold, communion meditation; and Mrs. Arthur Howard and Mrs. Lonnie Jackson will preside as elders.

Serving as deaconesses will be Mrs. Sylvester Butts, Mrs. Edward Walker, Mrs. Frank Tracy and Mrs. Carl Jenkins. Junior deaconesses will be Linda Hannas, Bonnie Miller, Debbie Rowe, Caroline Morris, Cathy Howard and Kathy Hannas.

After the service a church-wide luncheon will be held, followed by an informal discussion period.

On Saturday the women of Melvin Methodist Church have invited Miss Mitchell and the women of First Christian to be their guests at 8 p.m. at the church. Miss Mitchell will show slides and tell of her work in India.

Ann Landers . . . Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband sells encyclopedias direct to the consumer. He makes very good money, is a fine father and husband and we've never had any trouble that couldn't be talked out in one evening.

Because of the nature of my husband's work he often has to make evening calls. I never thought of a thing about it until a friend of mine asked if I had any proof that he was going where he said he was. Did he ever leave a number where he could be reached? Did he ever come home too late or too tired to be much of a husband? I admit she raised some doubts in my mind.

I've been examining his clothes for lipstick and can't find a trace. There are no hobby pins or red-tipped cigarette butts in the car ashtrays. In other words, not a shred of evidence. What does this sound like to you? — BIG QUESTION

DEAR BIG: It sounds like your friend's mouth would make the Grand Canyon look like a buttonhole.

A man who does direct selling should not be phoned at the home of a prospective customer.

And as for that last question, Toots, did your husband ever come home and find you too tired to be much of a wife? Does that mean you were cheating on him in the afternoon? Use your head, Girl. Your friend is no friend.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a high school junior, 17 years of age, and want you to answer a simple question in the newspaper so my folks can see it with their own eyes.

Why shouldn't a 17-year-old girl who makes good grades, is on the school paper, is a cheerleader, and holds a class office be allowed to date during the week?

I started to date when I was a freshman, and I've always behaved like a lady. At present my Amuro Uno is a college freshman. We are not going steady but I'm afraid he might fall hard for someone else if I can only see him three times a week. I need your help. — NEVER ON WEEKDAYS

DEAR NEVER: A 17-year-old girl should be at home evenings during the week. The reason you've done well in school is because your parents have been bright enough to keep you under control.

High school homework is poured on mighty heavy these days and kids who date during the week can't possibly do justice to their assignments. Three dates a week is a great plenty for Numero Uno. It's always best to keep a boy friend wanting just a little more of your company.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You were wrong when you told "Miss Inquisitive" that a left-handed handshake has no special meaning. I will quote from the manual "Tenderfoot to Queen Scout":

"When a famous Ashanti Chief surrendered to Lord Baden-Powell the latter extended his right hand as a token of friendship. The chief insisted on shaking with the left hand, explaining that the bravest of the brave shake hands with the left hand, since, in order to do so, he must throw away his greatest protection — the shield." Scouts shake hands with the left hand as proof of their good faith and true friendship. — CALGARY, ALBERTA

DEAR CAL: Your reference to the Queen Scout suggested that the southpaw approach was strictly a custom of our Canadian neighbors. After checking with my Silver Beaver friends in Chicago I learned that the left-handed handshake among Scouts is universal. Thank you for cluing us in on the interesting background.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Tougher U.S. And Latin American Line Toward Cuba Expected During 1964

By BEN F. MEYER

WASHINGTON (AP)—A more interventionist line toward Communist Cuba appears likely in 1964 on the part of both the United States and its Latin American neighbors, several of whom likely to be directed again to creative annual development programs to multiply Castro's trouble keeping its agricultural production going, even after expropriation of properties worth and dangerous problems for the free world nations.

At present there seems to be no strong prospect of any armed intervention unless Castro himself brings it on himself by overt aggression.

President Johnson is committed to vitalizing the Alliance for Progress, a billion-dollar, cooperative front problems to the time nor the money to foster many millions of dollars.

Some of these critics insist that tougher economic measures Red regime seems to be having: Secretary of State Dean Rusk recently included Cuba in a list of countries as well.

Some members of Congress, and an apparently increasing number of Latin American nations, are demanding something more than economic sanctions against Cuba.

The Cuban situation is menacing governments in the hemisphere, but the economic and social advancement of the hemisphere countries as well.

No longer, they feel, are Communist agitators, saboteurs and propagandists are now being recognized as a nuisance, not only to day-to-day business operations, but to basic political and economic progress of their countries.

Record Dorchester Budget Is Approved

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — The Dorchester County commissioners approved Tuesday a record budget of $2,025,000 for 1964, but held the property tax rate at $1.80 for the fourth straight year.

The commissioners trimmed spending requests by $25,000 to prevent a tax rate increase. The new budget is $82,000 higher than in 1963, but this is offset by the fact that the total assessable base in the county will increase in 1964 by $3.3 million to a total of $76.5 million.

The biggest appropriation in the new budget is $1,046,000 for the county school board.

Gold Spray

SEATTLE (UPI) — A technique for spraying gold on — like paint is sprayed — may result in wide use of the precious metal, says a Lockheed Missiles and Space Co. scientist.

The scientist, D. J. Levy, inventor of the technique, says the process has already been used successfully in the design of antennas for space vehicles.

Zip Tip

FORT MADISON, Ia. (UPI) — Poor penmanship will take the zip out of Zip Codes, a well-known handwriting expert warns. Illegibly written numbers on letters and packages slow down handling by postal workers and can nullify the advantages of Zip Code addressing, says Wesley E. Scott, Sheaffer Pen Co. consultant.

Here's his advice to pen users: Address legibly and print if necessary; use extra care in writing numbers and state abbreviations; double-check all doubtful addresses; put your return address on every piece of mail; use a permanent writing fluid that won't run or fade when exposed in winter weather.

Corn Grower Sets Record

A Talbot County man was cited by the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service for growing 194.6 bushels of corn—the highest official yield ever recorded in the state.

Joseph M. Steger, Allegany County farm agent, remarked that Thomas Yeatman of Wye Mills was issued a certificate of merit by the University of Maryland cooperating with the Talbot County Extension Service and the Talbot County Corn Club at the latter's recent annual banquet in Easton.

Mr. Yeatman said his total costs, including all production expenses, were approximately $81.50 an acre. His profit was equally good, he said.

Election Scheduled

Officers will be elected by the Allegany County Bar Association at a meeting Tuesday at 9:15 a. m. in the bar library of the Court House.

Those selected serve one-year terms in office. The current president is Milton Gerson, the vice president is William L. Wilson, treasurer is Ronald Brubaker and John C. Sullivan is secretary.

N.Y. Woman Hospitalized In One-Car Wreck

A young New York City mother was badly injured early Wednesday morning when she apparently lost control of the vehicle she was driving and plunged down an 80-foot embankment along the Pennsylvania Turnpike five miles east of Allegheny Mountain tunnel.

Admitted to Bedford County Memorial Hospital was Mrs. Judith Leonard, 33, reported in "fair" condition. She reportedly suffered a fracture of the skull and laceration of the scalp. Police said Mrs. Leonard was pregnant and there is danger she may lose the unborn child.

Her husband, Edward D. Leonard, suffered a laceration of the scalp, abrasions and contusions, while a young son escaped with only minor contusions.

Police said Mrs. Leonard was driving east on the Turnpike when she lost control of the car, collided with the medial barrier, careened across the east lane into an embankment and then across the medial barrier and the west lane before plunging down the steep embankment.

Damage to the car was listed at $3,000 by police. The accident occurred at about 1:30 a. m. Wednesday.

In another turnpike mishap Wednesday afternoon, Robert Conn, of Eatontown, N. J., suffered lacerations of the scalp when his head went through the windshield of the car operated by his wife, Mrs. Joyce S. Conn, 22.

Police said Mrs. Conn apparently was driving too fast for road conditions since the road was treacherous with snow. The vehicle rammed into the medial barrier when Mrs. Conn lost control of the car while passing a truck about two miles west of the Bedford Interchange.

A number of minor accidents were reported on the turnpike, the cause attributed to snow and icy spots.

Job Total Increases In State During Year

BALTIMORE (AP).—State figures show about 705,000 persons were employed in Maryland in 1963, 10,000 more than in the previous year, while unemployment remained at about 35,000.

A Maryland Department of Employment Security report shows unemployment in the state rose from 3.6 per cent in 1957 to 4.7 per cent last year. A 5.5 per cent rate of unemployment is predicted to continue through 1964.

Welfare Case Load Drops

The welfare case load in Allegany County dropped sharply in November from the previous month, according to a report released by the State Department of Public Welfare.

Old age assistance benefits were provided 443 persons for $28,377.05 with the average grant $59.54. There were seven cases added to the rolls and 15 canceled.

Aid to 1,096 dependent children of 403 families cost $49,358.33 with the average grant per family of $122.48. There were 13 new cases added and 18 canceled.

Public assistance to 18 needy blind persons cost $1,184.63 with the average grant $65.81. Aid to 334 permanently and totally disabled persons cost $16,719.68 with the average grant $56.05. There were eight cases added and 11 canceled.

General public assistance was given 53 persons at a cost of $3,063.98 with the average grant $58.19. There were two cases added and 10 canceled. Foster care of 116 children cost $8,113.41 with the average grant $69.94. There were three cases added and seven canceled.

Get First Permit

The first marriage license obtained at the Court House for 1964 was issued yesterday to Peter Fred Carone, 42, and Ruth Vivian Caye, 41, both of Carnegie, Pa.

Diesel Unit Catches Fire East Of City

One unit of a two-unit diesel locomotive heading towards Cumberland from Brunswick caught fire Wednesday night near Green Spring.

The Oldtown Volunteer Fire Company answered a call to the extra freight train at 8:45 p. m. and with the use of dry chemicals extinguished the blaze in Engine No. 5486.

B&O officials here said the train of 150 empty hoppers continued on its way under its own power and arrived here at 10:31 p. m.

An investigation is being conducted by the mechanical department into the cause of the fire. Wiring was damaged on the main generator of the diesel unit. There were no injuries.

Three Boys, Girl Share Limelight As First Borns

Firsts are prevalent in the family of the 1964 New Year's baby — a boy — born in Memorial Hospital.

The parents are Harold Manges, who was a New Year's baby 29 years ago, and the former Bonnie Lee Diehl, RD 1, Hyndman, arriving at 6:45 a. m. Wednesday, the child was their first, and weighed in at seven pounds, 12 1/2 ounces.

Mr. Manges is employed as a machinist by Allegany Instrument Company on Wills Mountain. The Grantsville New Year's baby — another boy — was born at 1:37 a. m. Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. John Flannigan in Meyersdale Community Hospital. The father is with the Air Force in Germany. Mrs. Flannigan, the former Dona Durst, daughter of 1932.

At Petersburg, Grant Memorial Hospital claimed a near-record with the New Year's baby being delivered at 12:12 a. m. A five pound, 14 1/2-ounce daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Galen Simmons, Mozer, W. Va.

GET A DRYER DEMONSTRATION

WIN

WORLD'S FAIR

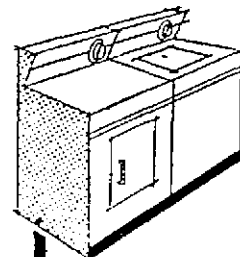

All Expenses Paid For Two -- 4 DAYS 3 NIGHTS

Now ... through March 31 ... Appliance Dealers are sponsoring a big World's Fair Contest which will make this dream trip a reality for two Potomac Edison customers in this area.

The lucky winners will live in a New York hotel, dine at fine restaurants, and see the fabulous World's Fair for 4 days and 3 nights ... all expenses paid.

Contest Rules

1. Go to your electrical appliance dealer's store and see a demonstration of a flameless electric clothes dryer.
2. Fill out your entry blank in the World's Fair contest. Deposit it with the dealer, when you get a dryer demonstration.
3. Winner will be drawn from all entries made between January 1 and March 31 and will be announced shortly thereafter.
4. Contest is applicable to Potomac Edison customers only.

Buyer A Dryer/Washer

When you have your dryer demonstration, you'll learn how convenient flameless electric clothes drying really is. There's no going out in cold, rainy weather. No lugging heavy wet wash. No hanging up and taking down. Every garment comes out fluffy, soft and sweet-smelling. And don't forget, an automatic washer is the perfect companion that saves money, time and work. For truly happy, more leisurely washdays — buy the flameless automatic laundry pair. And remember, your standard electric dryer installation is free, if you buy a dryer before March 31.

Jeffersonian Club Dinner Set Wednesday

The program for the annual Allegheny County Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner was announced by Edward Flanagan, president.

The affair is sponsored by the Jeffersonian Democratic Club of Allegheny County. This year's dinner will be held on Wednesday, January 8, at the Clarysville Inn. Cocktails will be served at 6:30 p. m. and the dinner will begin at 7 p. m.

Mr. Flanagan said the main speaker will be Louis L. Goldstein, comptroller of the treasury for the State of Maryland.

Attorney General Thomas B. Finan will introduce the speaker. William L. Wilson, local attorney and chairman of the Allegheny County Democratic State Central Committee, will serve as toastmaster for the celebration.

Rev. Msgr. J. Lawrence Kilkeny, pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church and rural dean of Western Maryland, will offer the invocation, and Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson will give the benediction.

Musical entertainment will be provided during the dinner and reservations may be made with any member of the club.

Veteran Court Clerk Retires

A veteran attache of Allegheny County Circuit Court quietly retired Tuesday, December 31 after a total of 30 years county service.

He is C. Kingsley McDonald, 28 North Woodlawn Avenue, LaVale, who was chief deputy clerk for Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court.

Mr. McDonald had 26 years service in the clerk of court's office and four years as a county tax collector in the Georges Creek section.

A graduate of the University of Maryland, Mr. McDonald at one time was engaged in the coal mining business with his father in the Barton area.

He is married to the former Mildred I. Long.

Pre-Sentence Probe Is Asked

Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey yesterday in Circuit Court ordered a pre-sentence investigation of William Daniel Robert Lease, 33, LaVale, prior to imposing of a sentence in a car theft case.

Lease, who has been in the Allegheny County jail since last September 15, was brought before Judge Cobey on a criminal information.

Donald W. Mason, deputy state's attorney, told the court that Lease took an auto from the Celanese Fibers Company's Amcelle Plant parking lot last July 8.

On September 14 he was arrested in Bedford on a traffic violation and the stolen car identified. Mr. Mason said that the top of the machine had been repainted.

Lease was defended by Julius Schindler, court-appointed attorney.

Keep Your Distance

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI) — When driving, stay a safe distance behind the car ahead of you, advises safety specialist O. L. Hogsett of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

It takes 328 feet to stop a car traveling at 70 miles an hour and 251 feet at 60 miles an hour, he said.

Hogsett suggests allowing at least one car length for every 10 miles of speed. This means that at 40 miles an hour their should be four car lengths between cars.

Nutty Nutrient

SPRINGVILLE, Ariz. (UPI) — Pinyon nut pickers report a bumper crop is being picked in this area.

So what? Well, the U. S. Forest Service says the Pinyon ranks first among U. S. native nut trees not under cultivation — although Pinyon nuts were an Indian food staple for centuries.

More than a million pounds of the wild nut have been picked and shipped to eastern markets in recent years. Going price today in Springville is 75 cents a pound.

Brickner Takes Usual Winter Dip

Gus Brickner, the Charlevoix, Pa., "Human Polar Bear," did it again—his 37th winter swim in the Monongahela River at Pittsburgh.

Accompanying him were Mr. and Mrs. David E. Nichols, of Edgewood, Pa. Mr. Nichols made his 23rd annual New Year's dip and his wife, her ninth.

Brickner is known as the first swimmer to have conquered Deep Creek Lake from its longest points. That was back in 1959 and the following year, he took another long swim in the Confluence flood control dam.

Wednesday, Brickner arrived on the scene at the foot of Wood Street in the Steel City accompanied by an entourage of television cameramen.

He wore a terry cloth robe emblazoned with the letters, "USA—Gus Brickner," a memento of his two unsuccessful assaults of the English Channel.

Brickner took three short dips, then told the crowd of about 25 that he owes his endurance to health foods.

The Nichols also credit their diet for their physical stamina. Nichols, 63, and his wife, 60, are vegetarians and they began their winter swims to demonstrate the value of a meatless diet.

The three paddled about for nearly two minutes in the Monongahela River. There was no ice in the river, but there was plenty on the shore. The temperature was about 30 degrees and it was snowing.

Beef Up

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Despite the fact that it takes 2.16 pounds of live animal to yield one pound of U. S. choice beef, sales of quarters and halves of beef are increasing, according to Texas A&M livestock marketing specialist Ed Uvacek.

January: Month Of Famous Men

January is unique in that in this month were born perhaps more Americans who became famous than in any other month.

The 13th President of the United States, Millard Fillmore, was born at Locke, Cayuga County, N. Y., on January 7, 1800. Fillmore became President in July of 1849, after the death of President Zachary Taylor.

January 11 is, of course, the birthday anniversary of Alexander Hamilton, the first Secretary of the Treasury, and one of the young nation's brilliant statesmen. On January 17 the birthday anniversary of Benjamin Franklin is observed. Franklin was born in 1706 in Boston. He became one of the country's greatest writers, inventors and philosophers—and many of his achievements are utilized by U. S. citizens every day, even in 1964. Franklin was one of the most versatile and gifted men ever to appear on the American scene.

The birthday of Daniel Webster occurs on January 18. Webster, a brilliant orator, was born in 1782. On January 19 and on January 21, respectively, the two most brilliant Confederate generals of the 1861-65 war were born. Lee in 1807, Jackson in 1824. Lee and Jackson were the most famous commanding pair in the war, and Lee is generally credited with being among the ablest military strategists ever developed in the United States. In the opinion of many, Lee was the foremost strategist.

The birthday anniversary of Edgar Allan Poe, one of the country's greatest writers, occurs on January 19. Poe was born in 1809 in Boston. Thomas Paine was born in England on January 29, 1737. The birthday anniversary of Franklin D. Roosevelt occurs on January 30. Roosevelt was born in 1882.

These Days

Galbraith And Taft's Clothes

President Lyndon Johnson's indication that there will be a few increases in his upcoming budget for certain "pilot" projects in welfare is another victory for that most supple of advisers, Professor John Kenneth Galbraith. For it is Galbraith who, on trips down from Cambridge, Mass., has been suggesting around Washington that the way to promote welfare in an era of frugality is to put on inexpensive showcase demonstrations in carefully chosen areas.

Ken Galbraith is always a delight to this columnist because of his uninhibited approach to things. In India, which needs free enterprise, Galbraith, as our Ambassador, talked to Indian professors as if he were an economist from the era of Calvin Coolidge. Now he is busy giving President Johnson some advice which he has taken from the book of no less a person than "Mr. Republican" himself, the late Senator Robert Taft. It was Bob Taft who, to the consternation of some of his Republican colleagues who resented any spending at all, first proposed that such things as federal aid to education should be channeled to the neediest counties in the nation, on a demonstration basis that would show local communities everywhere the value in trying to satisfy a few crying needs.

This was the Bob Taft who was called a "socialist" by a few head-shaking friends. But, to the extent that a frugal "demonstration" type of State Welfareism is preferable to blanket, or blunderbuss, federal outlays, Bob Taft is to be commended for conquering the Democratic Party through the medium of his new disciple, Ken Galbraith.

I am not trying to kid Professor Galbraith. He enchants me precisely because he is no hard-and-fast stick-in-the-mud as a Leftist. He is amenable to compromise. He can see that federal pilot spending might result in local emulation at local expense. As an economist he is willing, on occasion, to forget John Maynard Keynes. Nobody has yet caught him hobnobbing in New York City with the dean of free enterprise economists, Professor Ludwig von Mises, but that might even come to pass some day.

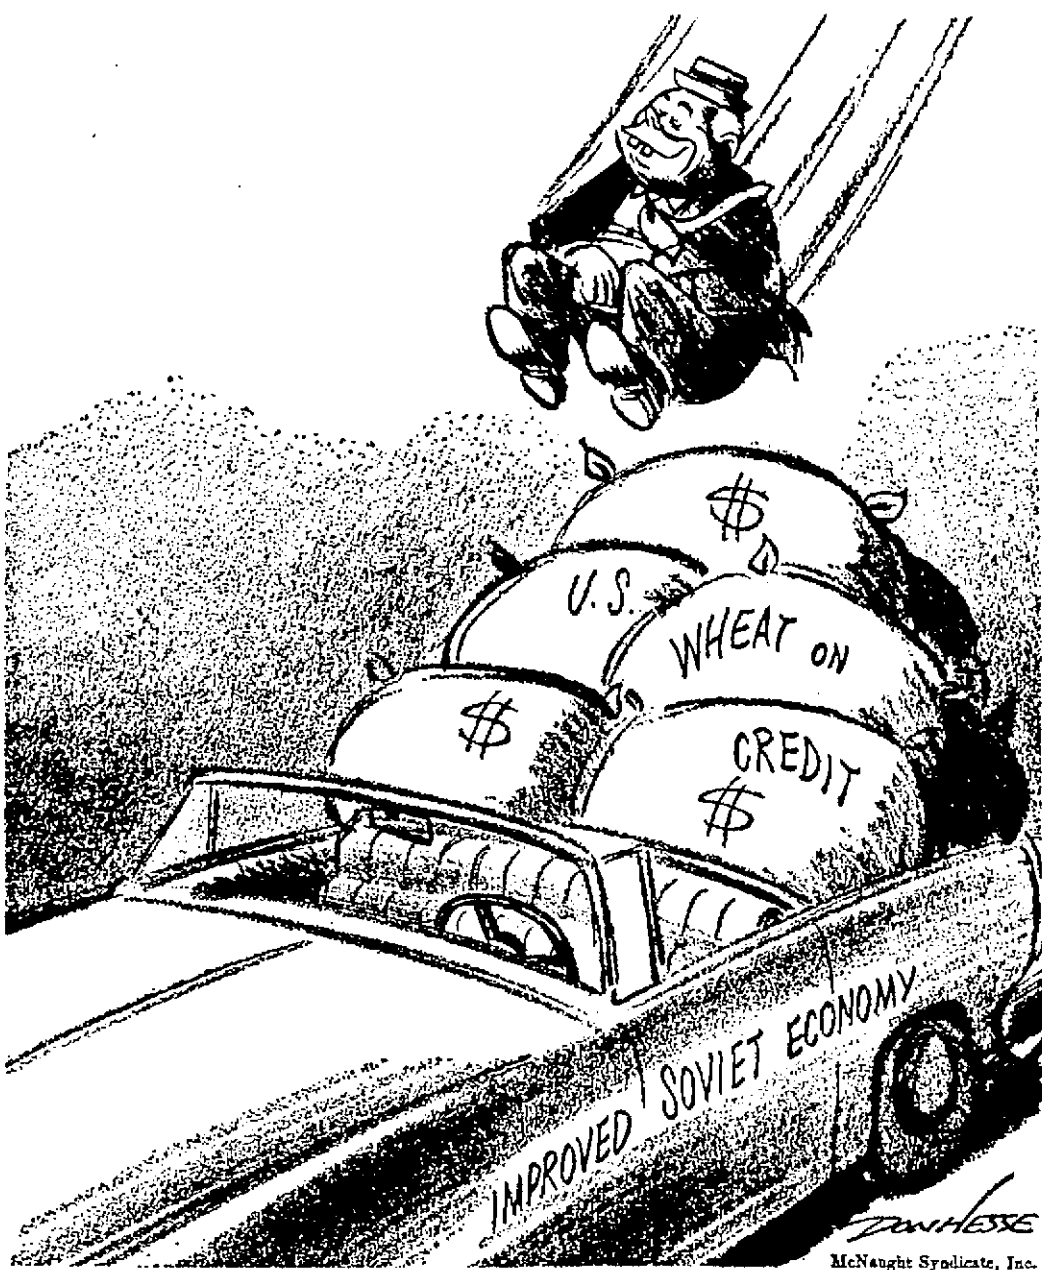

The nice thing about Galbraith is that he can kid his own professorial kind. He is, so I am told on the good authority of internal evidence, the author of a recent spoof called "The McLandress Dimension," written under the pseudonym of Mark Epernay. Professor McLandress is a Whiz Kid to End All Whiz Kids, one who has managed to carry statistical methods to every logical absurdity that can be conceived by the mind of man. Galbraith-Epernay has denied that he invented the McLandress one morning while busy shaving in front of a mirror.

The McLandress test of objectivity in statistics is beautiful to behold. It consists of calculating, on the basis of the number of self-references in a speech, a coefficient which is "the arithmetic mean or average of the intervals of time during which a subject's thoughts remain centered on some substantive phenomenon other than his own personality." According to the McLandress Coefficient, Professor J. K. Galbraith himself has a low rating of "one minute fifteen seconds." Richard Nixon's rating is a bit worse; he checks out at "only three seconds." The late President Kennedy had an excellent coefficient of twenty-nine minutes, which is exceedingly good for a public figure.

Armed with a McLandress calculator, the general public might think it had something dependable to go on in this business of rating the objectivity of public servants. But alas, like all our learned Herr Doctors who substitute statistical analysis for critical insight, McLandress has missed the point. The number of self-references in any speech by a modern public figure depends not on the public figure's own self-importance but is entirely due to the Flattery-Coefficient of the chosen ghost writer. For example, the late Franklin Roosevelt's McLandress Coefficient, as judged from his collected speeches, would measure the self-importance, not of himself, but of an average composite of Judge Rosenman, Archibald MacLeish, Raymond Moley, Tommy Corcoran, Adolf Berle, and Rexford Tugwell. So where do we go from there? Isn't it up to Galbraith-Epernay to write a spoof of his own spoof? He hasn't kidded the statistics manipulators half enough.

School Integration Problems In The North

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—It is so easy nowadays to get mixed up as to whether one is reading about New York City or Birmingham, Ala., in the controversy over "civil rights" and desegregation of public schools. In the minds of many people, this issue is supposedly confined solely to the South. But an editorial in "The New York Times" has just made it clear that the question of school integration is beginning to emerge as one of the most troublesome of the era in all parts of the country. The "Times" described the situation in New York as follows:

"The issue of how to end De Facto segregation of the city's schools has become involved in irrational arguments, intemperate statements and inexcusable demagoguery. Almost all parties involved in the dispute are at fault."

"James B. Donovan, the acting president of the Board of Education, used unfortunate terminology when he said that he presides over a Board of Education, not a board of integration or transportation."

"Stanley H. Lowell, chairman of the City Commission on Human Rights, read the Board of Education a public lecture. This was not only a dubious exercise in statesmanship on the part of one city agency toward another but also included some gross misinterpretations of the school board's position and intent. The charge that the board subscribes to the 'separate but equal' doctrine is both insulting and untrue."

"Finally, the Rev. Milton Galamison, as chairman of the City-wide Committee for Integrated Schools, departed shockingly from his earlier, constructive course as a civil rights leader when he said that he would rather see the school system destroyed than have it fail in what he considers the necessary timetable for integration. 'Maybe it has run its course anyway, the public school system,' he said. Until this statement was made, the segregationists of the South alone held the dubious distinction of being ready to sacrifice the public schools to the demands of their extremists."

"Equally inexcusable is the demand that Dr. Calvin E. Gross be removed as superintendent of schools. A look at Dr. Gross's record makes it clear that implications of racism against him are nothing short of character assassination."

"It is time to stop such dangerous tactics. Mistakes have been made in the past, probably by all parties. There is nothing to be gained from magnifying them now or making them appear as acts of bad faith. The civil rights leadership and the Human Rights Commission can help the schools—and the children in them—best by working with the board, in calm intelligence and without the threat of a futile and destructive boycott."

If the editorials in the Southern newspapers were to be examined, it would be found that they, too, have tried to advise their readers there is no simple solution to the troublesome issue. What has complicated it, of course, is the entry of the federal government into the process of education—something which has always been considered the function of the state governments.

But now that the federal government is already exercising a

Two Senior Southerners Delayed $6 Billion Agriculture Dept. Bill

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — For almost six months in 1963, appropriations for the Agriculture Department totalling over $6 billion were held up, thanks in large part to a row between two senior Congressmen from Georgia and Mississippi. They were arguing over a peanut laboratory and a food utilization laboratory.

The delay illustrates the manner in which Congressional seniority has become so encrusted that it undermines efficient government and works toward Communism.

The two rowing Congressmen were Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia, and Rep. Jamie Whitten of Mississippi, both Democrats and both powerful members of the subcommittees which vote appropriations for agriculture.

In 1962, Russell demanded a peanut laboratory costing $1,600,000 at Dawson, Ga., and held up the Department of Agriculture appropriations bill trying to get it. But Mississippi's Whitten opposed.

For over two months the two Southern Democrats sat glowering at each other, each refusing to budge. As a result this and other differences, the agriculture appropriations bill was the last one passed in 1962.

This past year Russell upped his demand to include not only the peanut lab at Dawson, but a food utilization plant at Athens, Ga., at a cost of $7,500,000. Again Whitten opposed. His opposition was based partly on economy. He did not want to see a lot of new laboratories built, when the work could be done in labs which the Agriculture Department already had in operation. Naturally, also, Whitten didn't want to see Georgia favored against his own state of Mississippi.

Sen. Russell used to be chairman of the Appropriations Subcommittee for Agriculture, has now stepped down in favor of Sen. Spessard Holland of Florida, a kindly gentleman who doesn't worry too much about what his Georgia neighbor wants as long as the citrus fruit industry is taken care of.

So the deadlock over the peanut lab in Dawson, Ga., and the food utilization lab in Athens, Ga., dragged out in 1963 until one week before Christmas. Meanwhile the Agriculture Department had been operating ever since June 30 on the old 1962 appropriations bill.

Finally, just before Christmas, the gentleman from Mississippi gave the Sen. from Georgia the southeastern research lab he wanted at Athens, Ga., at a cost of $9,500,000. The peanut lab at Dawson was skipped for the time being, but with an agreement that it would come up in the supplemental appropriation bill later.

In return, Rep. Whitten got $1,500,000 to build a cotton weed control laboratory at Stoneville, Miss. This — yes, you guessed it — is right in Whitten's district.

When the final compromise was worked out by the two powerful gentlemen from Georgia and Mississippi, they presented it to Chairman Holland of Florida, who really didn't know what was in the compromise but was glad to accept it. Thus after six months delay the bill was passed.

This is how senior members of Congress dominate Congress regardless of what the rest of the people want.

Protecting The President

Many people don't realize it, but out of twenty Presidents including Abraham Lincoln, through

John F. Kennedy, four have been killed by assassins' bullets, two shot at, and one wounded after he left office.

Teddy Roosevelt was hit in the chest while campaigning on the Bull Moose ticket; Franklin Roosevelt was shot at in Florida after his election; Harry S. Truman's temporary residence, Blair House, was attacked by Puerto Ricans; Lincoln, James A. Garfield, William McKinley, and Kennedy were killed. In other words, thirty per cent of our Presidents have been killed or shot at.

This is a record which Europeans simply cannot understand in a modern, educated country which prides itself on being the leader of the capitalist world.

Here are some ideas for insuring better protection of our Presidents:

1. Appropriate more money for the Secret Service.

2. Give the chief of the Secret Service more power in advising on the movements of the President.

3. Secure newspaper cooperation in withholding the routes of travel from the President.

4. Require closer cooperation between the Secret Service and the FBI.

Officially the FBI will tell you that it cooperates completely with the Secret Service. But actually there has been a long-running feud between the two.

Over the years, the FBI has become the most powerful and sacrosanct agency of government. Few dare criticize it. Congress gives J. Edgar Hoover whatever appropriation he asks, while examining every nickel spent by almost every other bureau of government. There has been no real check on FBI spending for years. Many Congressmen know that there's too much on them in FBI files.

FBI cooperation with the Secret Service at Dallas was woefully lacking. The solution is a bipartisan commission, independent of Congress, to check on the FBI, Central Intelligence, and the Secret Service.

Thirty per cent of our Presidents killed or fired at is too shameful a record.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

I remember this child . . .

She sits on the edge of the iron bed. She smooths the skirt down absent-mindedly. She folds the chubby hands on her lap and looks at you expectantly. The smile is small and pursed and permanent. She keeps it on to show you that she is not afraid. She is. Her name is Little Miss Nobody. She is afraid that you have come to take her away. Or take Jerry away. He is her brother. They live at the Lt. Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Home for Children, in the Bronx, New York.

Her hair is black and curly. Her green jumper dress is clean. So are the socks and play shoes. She sleeps in this room with three little girls. The beds have dolls sitting on the pillows. Except Little Miss Nobody's. She has a 49 cent teddy bear.

She is seven. Behind the smile, she is an old lady. In the secrecy of the chapel next door, she asks God to please do nothing that will separate her from Jerry. Her prayer will be answered because nobody wants her. She has an older sister, Sonia, is 10. Little Miss Nobody does not love her as much as she does Jerry, because Sonia is deaf and dumb and it is difficult to get to love people who cannot laugh or cry.

Jerry is 8. He is dark and shy and he obeys Little Miss Nobody when he meets her in the big play yard. "Tomorrow the sisters will take the boys skating," she says. "Go skating, Jerry. Don't go too fast." He nods down to his little mother.

She does not remind him not to steal the lunches of other boys, because she does not want to hurt Jerry. Sometimes, when the sisters give out lunches, Jerry steals two or three and hides them. He never knows why. The sisters know. For the first five years of life, he was hardly fed. Little Miss Nobody makes happy talk. She seldom stops. She wants to help everybody. She will run errands, sit and talk, charm you, give you her teddy bear. She will even lie, if it will please you.

"Have you cried lately?" "Oh yes. Today." "Why?" "The sister told us a puzzle about a clock. I didn't know the answer." "Win the smartest one in your family?" "Jerry." "What are you going to be when you grow up?" "Nurse." "How is Sonia?" "The doctor is going to make her all better." "When you say your prayers, what do you pray for?" She looks shy, and whispers the answer: "My own dolly."

There is much that Little Miss Nobody does not know. She was two when her mother ran away. Jerry was 3. Sonia was 5. It was the week before Christmas. The police said her mother was "promiscuous." The father was a tense and quiet man who talked to himself.

At night, the babies heard the taunts of the mother and the roars of the father. When their mother left, she dressed nice and stooped and kissed them one by one. She was going to have another baby. It would not be Little Miss Nobody's true sister.

After their father became more and more quiet, Little Miss Nobody prattled to him cheerfully, but he said nothing. Sonia stared at him mutely. Jerry stuck his thumb in his mouth. He worked all day and he made oatmeal for dinner and he watched the children eat and the palms of his hands pounded the kitchen sink in monotonous rhythm.

One night he started screaming and he ran back and forth through the railroad flat shouting that he was going to kill his children. Little Miss Nobody huddled the others in a corner of the bedroom and ordered them to keep quiet. "Daddy," she said, "is mad at us."

Some men came and took the father away. He was insane. He spent a long time in a place with wire screens. Then he came out, chastened and humble. Today, he works hard at forgetting. There is another lady in his house and a new baby. He never visits Little Miss Nobody. And Jerry. And Sonia. He is busy saving himself.

At the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Home, the children have lots of mothers. In the corridors, they look like silent swans. All of them are Missionary Sisters of the Third Order of Saint Francis. Little Miss Nobody stands in the hall so that she will have lots of people to say hello to.

Most of the other little girls have visitors. So the little girl gets even by making friends with all visitors. Sometimes, when she sees them coming in — strange ladies in nice fur coats and gentlemen who frown and keep looking at their watches — Little Miss Nobody puts on her richest smile and reaches out and takes the lady by the hand. They always say "Well, well, little girl. What's your name?" Then they move on, because they too are busy.

I haven't seen Little Miss Nobody in a couple of years. But I remember. I remember . . .

Value Of Exercise For Arthritic Joints

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

It is advisable for victims of rheumatoid arthritis to move the afflicted joints at least once each day and preferably, more often.

The ailing part should be put through its full range of motion. This is the best way to prevent stiffness, deformities, and muscle atrophy. The treatment will be less painful if performed after applying heat and taking an analgesic drug.

Best results are obtained when the joints are bent without the help of others. Such exercise can be done in bed so as not to bear weight or damage the inflamed, swollen parts.

plying heat and taking an analgesic drug.

Best results are obtained when the joints are bent without the help of others. Such exercise can be done in bed so as not to bear weight or damage the inflamed, swollen parts.

The value of exercise is demonstrated in persons with involvement of many joints. These men and women will use the dominant left or right arm more than any other joint in eating, reaching for books, scratching the head, and brushing the teeth. Examination usually reveals that the muscles and joints of this extremity remain stronger and more flexible than those elsewhere in the body.

In other words, motion leaves the joints in better condition when the disease process begins to subside. Joints that have become stiffened through disease may need to be stretched. This should be done under the direction of the physician or in the physical therapy department of a hospital.

Splints may be necessary to correct deformities, especially of hands and wrists. Now and then a surgeon releases tight tendons and the scar tissue surrounding a stiff joint.

Meanwhile, an attempt is being made to strengthen the weakened muscles through maneuvers like weight lifting with sandbags or pulleys. Isometric muscle contractions also are of value, particularly in acutely inflamed joints. Occupational therapy includes activities such as sanding or sawing wood, which require the use of muscles and bending of joints. The individual also can boast of the fruits of his labor as well as getting exercise. Other activities include leather work, weaving, painting, and printing.

Try And Stop Me

In the lawless 20's, recalls John McPhaul, Chicago boasted a tiny but lovely young lady named Nellie Higgs, who didn't look strong enough to lift a gun but did manage to shoot a gent who, according to her, had betrayed her.

During his final plea to the jury, Miss Higgs' lawyer chanced to brush against his overcoat. A golden canary flew out of a pocket. As the bird circled in a panic about the courtroom, the lawyer was inspired to liken little Nellie to the canary. She had been trapped and caged by man, he emoted, but the twelve good men on the jury could free her. Which, despite damning evidence, they promptly did.

Contracts Let For New Power Plant In W. Va.

FAIRMONT, W. Va. (UPI)—General Electric Corp. and Combustion Engineering Inc., Thursday received contracts for construction of the $57.5 million, 500,000-kilowatt Ft. Martin power station on the Monongahela River north of Morgantown.

General Electric received a contract for the station's turbine while Combustion Engineering received the contract for the boiler. Amounts of the two contracts were not revealed.

President Donald M. Kammer of Monongahela Power Co. made the announcement.

The Ft. Martin station, part of a system of 500,000-kilowatt facilities to serve the East, is being built jointly by Monongahela Power and Potomac Edison Co.

The completion date is 1967. The Ft. Martin installation will be the largest station in the parent Allegheny Power System.

A similar facility is being built at Mt. Storm, Grant County, by Virginia Electric Power Co.

The boiler construction is to start next year at Ft. Martin and the generator is to be delivered in early 1966.

Christopher Coal Co. has contracted to provide the facility with about 1.5 million tons a year.

The groundbreaking is expected to be made next fall.

Warmup Melts Snow In Southland

By United Press International

A welcome warming trend melted snow in the South and eased the cold snap in the East Thursday. The U. S. Weather Bureau predicted even warmer readings for the weekend. Temperatures rose into the high 30s and 40s in the north and to the 60s along the Gulf Coast. The only snow amounted to flurries in the lower Great Lakes region and light snow in the upper Rocky Mountains.

Sign Language Films To Aid Deaf

ROMNEY—Rev. Mr. J. J. Ambler, vicar of the St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, is going to New York this week to demonstrate up-to-date sign language of the deaf for use in cartridge-type films. The films will be made available to interested groups sometime in the spring.

Rev. Ambler said "This is the first time such films have been produced. All other sign language manuals rely completely upon photographs or diagrams."

He explained that the films will be based upon a new book being published by the Episcopal Church "to fill the need for accurate, up-to-date book sign language of the deaf, especially in the area of religious signs."

John Tyler was the first vice president elevated to the presidency by the death of the President. He took office on the death of William Henry Harrison.

Bloodmobile Will Visit Oakland Next Wednesday

OAKLAND—The Johnstown unit of the American Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at the Oakland fire hall, Wednesday, January 8, from 12 o'clock noon until 6 p. m. to collect 100 pints of blood from local and area volunteers.

Mrs. Grover C. Stemple, blood recruitment chairman of the Garrett County Red Cross Chapter, suggested there is no better way to start the new year than by a resolution to fulfill a civic responsibility and become a blood donor.

The county quota of 100 pints, she explained, is needed to assure an ample supply of whole blood to meet local, national and armed services needs in the event of emergency and disaster. The local hospital depends upon the Red Cross for whole blood and plasma when needed.

First Traffic Victim In W.Va. Is Teen-Ager

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Doris Harper, 17-year-old junior at Stonewall Jackson High School, became West Virginia's first traffic victim of 1964.

Miss Harper, whose death Wednesday night was the only New Year holiday highway fatal reported in West Virginia, was struck by a car on icy U. S. 21, in north Charleston, shortly after the new year was born.

Authorities said Miss Harper and a friend, Bonnie Bender, 19, South Charleston, were struck by a skidding car driven by Daniel D. McCune, 24, South Charleston. City police said Miss Bender escaped serious injury but Miss Harper was taken to the Charleston General Hospital. She died Wednesday night.

During the past year, many lives have been saved here, because the county's citizens participate in the Red Cross blood bank, and because some citizens care enough to give their blood when the mobile unit is here, the chairman said.

Due to occasional illness, disability etc., it is necessary that a score or more new volunteers be recruited for each visit of the bloodmobile. A recruitment committee is busy contacting people and making appointments for them. This committee includes Mrs. Fred Bell, Mrs. Avis Biltzinger, Mrs. W. W. Grant, Mrs. Gerald Sanders, Mrs. Roscoe Swiger, and Mrs. Frederick Thayer Sr.

Physicians who volunteer their time for the blood bank include Dr. Arthur Jones, chairman, Dr. Eugene Irving Bangartner, Dr. James H. Feaster, Dr. Joseph Alvarez, Dr. Bowie Linn Grant, and Dr. Herbert H. Leighton.

Chairman of registration is Mrs. O. T. Graser. Chairman of the hostesses is Mrs. Fulcher Smith. Chairman of the canteen committee is Mrs. Cecil Smith with Mrs. Russell Smith as co-chairman. Mrs. Arthur Jones and Mrs. F. R. Shaffer are typists.

All of these people are volunteers to help keep the blood bank program here, and Mrs. Paul Naylor, Red Cross chairman for Garrett County said they work at each visit of the bloodmobile, in addition some of them are also blood donors.

Sponsors of the program urge all who are physically able to visit the bloodmobile next Wednesday and help exceed the quota.

Attend Funeral

MT. SAVAGE — Out of town guests who recently attended the funeral of Mrs. John Malloy were: Mrs. Collins and daughter, Rosemary; Miss Emaline Barrett; Washington, D. C., John Charleston General Hospital; and where she died Wednesday night.

West Virginia GOP Leaders Plan Meeting

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The top brass in West Virginia's Republican party plans to meet here Saturday to work out strategy for the forthcoming primary and general election campaigns.

The meeting called by State Chairman Howard V. Corcoran of Wheeling will bring together six vice chairmen of the Republican State Executive Committee and other top officials.

The vice chairmen are Rex Bumbardner, Bristol, Harrison County; 1st Congressional District; Lacy Rice Jr., Martinsburg, 2nd District; John Thomas, Charleston, 3rd; Joseph G. Neal, Huntington, 4th; Jack Beamer, Welch, 5th, and Stanley Cox, Morgantown, vice chairman at-large.

Other officers scheduled to attend are associate chairman Mrs. E. K. Stevens, Charleston; Treasurer Henry Butts, Charleston; Mrs. Shirley Winslow, Scott Depot, Putnam County, assistant to the secretary; Bill Phillips Jr., Elkins, president of the Young Republicans League, and Harriet Stone, Charleston, newly elected president of the West Virginia Federation of Republican Women.

Vets To Get Help By Appointment

FROSTBURG—Frank T. Powers, service officer, Faraday Post 24, American Legion, and also a member of the Maryland Veterans Commission, will be at the American Legion Home, in Frostburg, to assist with pension questionnaires, in afternoon by appointment, or every evening from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m. during the month of January. He has requested that all veterans needing assistance to contact him during those hours.

Attend Wedding

MT. SAVAGE — Out of town guests who recently attended the wedding of Thomas Carter, Mt. Savage, to Miss Donna Lewis, Lonaconing, were Mr. and Mrs. John Carter, Catonsville; Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Norris, Calla Hill; second prize Joseph Lilly, Bank Street; third prize, Leon Connors, Foundry Row. Honorable mention: Mrs. LaVerne Hook, New town; Robert Flynn, Church Hill; and Richard Walsh, Calla Hill.

Mrs. Maude Holsinger, president of the club, has extended her thanks to the judges, to the business men who displayed contest signs in their store windows, and also the people in town who responded so well to the contest.

W. Va. November Slump Did Not Affect State's Overall Economic Picture

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A slight slump in West Virginia business activity during November is not expected to affect the state's overall economic picture for 1963.

The State Chamber of Commerce reports that during November only eight of its 22 business indicators showed gains over October levels. On the year-to-year basis, November, 1963, indicators exceeded the same month of 1962 in 17 of 22 indexes.

Chamber managing director Earle L. Elmore said the economy would present a "mixed picture" through February with no clear up or down trend. Gains in activity from October through November were noted in retail sales, up 7.4 per cent, natural gas production 9.2; consumers sales tax collections .03, auto sales 18.6, postal receipts 1.4, cash farm income 38.5 and average weekly earnings in mining, up 2.4 per cent to $134.27.

Seasonal declines from October were noted in coal production, down 16.7 per cent, gasoline sales 17.8, dollar value of building permits 59.2 and total unemployment, up 7.4 per cent to 47.700.

Crude petroleum, value of manufactured products, electric power production, sales of ordinary life insurance, bank deposits, salaries and wages and average weekly earnings in manufacturing also showed losses in November compared to October. Total employment also dropped from about 543,500 during October to about 536,500 during November, a 1.3 per cent decline. But the total was still head of the 534,100 total during November, 1962.

Light Contest Winners Listed At Mt. Savage

MT. SAVAGE — Winners in the outdoor Christmas display contest sponsored by Mt. Savage Homemakers Club are, first prize Vincent Norris, Calla Hill; second prize Joseph Lilly, Bank Street; third prize, Leon Connors, Foundry Row. Honorable mention: Mrs. LaVerne Hook, New town; Robert Flynn, Church Hill; and Richard Walsh, Calla Hill.

Mrs. Maude Holsinger, president of the club, has extended her thanks to the judges, to the business men who displayed contest signs in their store windows, and also the people in town who responded so well to the contest.

Homemakers Plan Meetings Next Week

OAKLAND — The Caselman Valley Homemaker's Club will meet at 8 p. m. January 7 at the home of Mrs. Robert Davis.

Mrs. Robert Gillum, new president of the group, will preside at the reorganization and business meeting, said Ethel Grove, home demonstration agent.

On the following day the Grantsville Homemakers will meet at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Charles Bradley. The business and reorganization meeting will be in charge of Mrs. Allen Baker, president.

Determan Named Bank President

PIEDMONT — John B. Determan, Church Street, Westernport, was named president of First National Bank here by the board of directors.

A meeting of the group was held to fill the vacancy created by the death of Dr. Robert W. Bess Sr.

Harold Fredlock was selected as vice president, the office formerly held by Determan and Jack Mullen. Local attorney, was named a director.

Party Slated

MT. SAVAGE—Rev. William E. McGrew, rector of St. George's Episcopal Church, will be host to the Altar Guild, acolytes, choir, choir mothers, ushers and parish staff at a Christmas party today.

W.Va. Employer To Get Relief In Jobless Fund

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Beginning Thursday, West Virginia employers who have been paying into the unemployment compensation fund at the maximum rate for four years, were restored to an experience rating formula.

Employment Security Commissioner Clement Bassett noted an individual employer's tax rate cannot be ascertained until after Jan. 31, the date on which the amount of the fund will be computed.

Employers have been paying at the maximum 2.7 per cent rate since October, 1959, when the fund fell below the $45 million statutory level.

The fund continued to drop until it leveled off at $27.5 million in March, 1961. As of the end of 1963, it had climbed to about $57.6 million.

Gov. W. W. Barron said it was estimated that restoring employers back to experience rating to calculate their tax shares would save businessmen about $12 million this year.

W. Va. Trooper Wounded During Arrest Attempt

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—State Police Cpl. H. E. Parks of the nearby Clendenen detachment received stab wounds in the chest and arm in an unsuccessful attempt to make an arrest.

Authorities said Parks reportedly was attacked by three men as he was trying to make the arrest and suffered wounds in the scalp and ear.

He was reported in satisfactory condition in a local hospital. State Police were seeking the men.

Women To Serve In Church Nursery

LONA CONING — Miriam Circle of First Presbyterian Church announced the following will serve the nursery during January: Sunday, Mrs. James Cathcart, and Mrs. Earl Stafford; January 12, Mrs. William McElvie and Mrs. Robert Stafford; January 19, Mrs. Harry Hadley and Mrs. Elmer Marsh; January 26, Mrs. Ira Wittington and Mrs. John Wattenscheidt.

DON'T YOU READ BEFORE YOU BUY?

Where but in print can you get so close to the advertising messages that interest you? Where else can a woman clip the coupons and recipes that intrigue her? Or tear out tips to try on leftovers? Or mark, for future marketing, any of the colorful food ideas which strike her fancy?

And where else can she circle and compare the colors and styles of clothing and furnishings that appeal to her?

Where else, in fact, can any message be re-run at will by an interested audience?

So make sure a good part of your advertising message gets into print. Let somebody's eyes linger over it as long as they like. Let somebody's scissors clip it free of competition. And then watch someone's pocket or purse carry it to the place of purchase. Print makes sense because print makes sales.

Allegany Opens Defense Of WMIL Title, Plays Mt. Savage Here

Valley Cagers, Fort Hill Play At Lonaconing

Beall Quint Tests Unbeaten Bulldogs, 7 PVC Games Set

Allegany High School's Campers open defense of the Western Maryland Interscholastic League basketball championship they won last season when they play host to the Mt. Savage High School Indians tonight at 8 o'clock at Campobello.

Coach Chet Payne's quint, sparked by Steve Vandenberg, who set a W. M. I. season record of 260 points, romped through a 10-game schedule last season and whipped Mt. Savage by scores of 66-42 and 53-42.

Campers Win 17 Of 20

Tonight's game marks the 21st meeting of the schools in basketball. The Campers have won 17 of the 20 games played to date and have copped the last nine from the Indians whose last victory was scored in the opener of the 1959 series here. The Campers swept two-game series in 1960, 1961, 1962 and 1963. Allegany has won 9 out of the 10 games played here and 8 out of 10 at Mt. Savage.

Secondary feature on tonight's W. M. I. card is the Fort Hill at Valley contest, also the 21st meeting of the schools. The Black Knights have had the Indian sign on the Sentinel, winning 14 of the 20 games played thus far. Valley has been real tough at home and has turned back Fort Hill at Lonaconing nine times in ten tries. The teams have split even in ten games staged here.

Bruce Is Undeatable

Undeatable Bruce High School, which failed to win a game in the league last season, will be striving for its sixth consecutive win of the campaign tonight when it entertains the Beall High Mountaineers at Westport.

Coach Leonard Ritchie's Bulldogs have knocked off Northern twice, Elk Garden, Bayard and Southern and should run into tougher opposition when they face Beall which has beaten Piedmont, LaSalle, Ridgeley and Fort Ashby and lost to Keyser in five outings to date.

This is the 44th consecutive season of play for the W. M. I. league, the oldest basketball league in this area.

Here is the order in which the schools finished last season: Allegany 10-0, Valley 6-4, Mt. Savage, 5-5, Fort Hill 5-5, Beall 4-6 and Bruce 0-10.

LaSalle High School's Explorers are idle tonight and do not swing into action until January 7 when Hyndman High School is met here.

Seven PVC Tills Listed

Seven Potomac Valley Conference games appear on tonight's card.

Coach Ed Wimer's undefeated Franklin Panthers (8-0) are pacing this 20-school circuit with a 4-0 record, followed by Bruce and Keyser with 3-0 each.

Keyser High's Golden Tornado entertains Elk Garden, Romney visits Petersburg, Bayard hosts Southern's Highlanders, Capon Bridge invades Wardensville, Mathias is at Franklin and Ridgeley High's Blackhawks tackle Fort Ashby's Eagles at the latter place. The Beall-Bruce game is also a P. V. C. contest as the schools are represented in two leagues.

Hornets In BCL Opener

Hyndman High School's Hornets open defense of their Bedford County League championship tonight when they entertain Tussey Mountain High of Saxton. Coach John Keller's team copped the title with an 8-2 record last season. Bedford High's Bisons are at Everett Southern for a B. C. L. tilt today.

Rounding out the scholastic schedule are Circleville's game with Mountaineer High of Davis on the latter's court and the Charles Town-Berkeley Springs contest at the latter place. Berkeley will be putting a 4-0 record on the line.

Bobcats In Tournament

Dr. Ron Van Ryswyk's Frostburg State College Bobcats journey to Bridgewater, Va., to face the host school tonight in the opening round of a two-day tournament. F. S. C. has won three of five games played to date. Concord's Mountain Lions of the West Virginia Conference play Elizabethtown (Pa.) College in the other semi-final round game tonight.

Delayed Furman Cagers Eat 'Pre-Game' Meal Here

Furman Shoots Fifty Per Cent To Upset WVU

Frye Scores 20 In 65-57 Victory

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — Underdog Furman, behind the 20-point output of Don Frye, pulled out to an early lead and went on to defeat West Virginia 65-57 in a southern conference game here Thursday — leading by as many as 19 points at one stage.

The Paladins, although they arrived 1½ hours late for the game due to a tiring bus trip from Washington, D. C., were too much for WVU in claiming their first victory here.

The Mountaineers, led by sophomore forward John Lesh, er's 18 points, tried to match Furman's deliberate style and failed. WVU used a defensive press effectively late in the game to cut the final margin to eight points.

WVU held a 4-1 lead in the early moments but Furman quickly pulled out to a 9-4 margin, led 28-19 at the half and was never headed. WVU had beaten Furman 67-65 in its season opener.

The difference was in shooting from the floor. Furman hit a hot 50 per cent, making 23 of 46 tries. WVU hit only 20 of 46 attempts for 30.3 per cent.

The Paladins outrebounded the Mountaineers 43 to 42. Les Heicher followed Frye in scoring for Furman with 16 and Leroy Peacock had 14. Heicher pulled down 9 rebounds and Frye and Selvy 8 each.

Marty Lantz backed up Lesh-er for WVU with 13 points, followed by center Tom Lowry with 6. Lowry led WVU with 8 rebounds.

"We shot exceedingly well," said Coach Lyles Alley of Furman. "But even better was our aggressiveness on defense." WVU Coach George King said there "wasn't much" he could say. "They just outshined us, outshot and outrebounded us."

It was the first time since 1956 WVU had lost two games at home during a season.

NBA All-Star Squads Filled

Howell, Walker, Ohl, Gola Added

NEW YORK (UPI) — The rival teams for the National Basketball Association's 14th annual All-Star Game were completed Thursday with the selection of Bailey Howell and Don Ohl to the West squad and Chet Walker of the Philadelphia 76ers and Tom Gola of the New York Knickerbockers to the East.

The All-Star Game will be played at Boston Tuesday night, Jan. 14, and will be televised over a special network.

Eight players on each squad were chosen earlier in a poll of writers and broadcasters in the nine league cities. The two remaining players on each team were selected by a vote of the league coaches and announced today by President Walter Kennedy.

Here are the complete 10-man squads for the game:

East — Forwards, Tom Heinsohn, Boston; Jerry Lucas, Cincinnati; Len Chappell, New York; and Walker; centers, Bill Russell, Boston, and Wayne Embrey, Cincinnati; backcourt, Oscar Robertson, Cincinnati; Sam Jones, Boston; Hal Greer, Philadelphia, and Gola.

West — Forwards, Elgin Baylor, Los Angeles; Terry Dischinger, Baltimore; Bob Pettit, St. Louis, and Howell; centers, Walt Bellamy, Baltimore, and Wilt Chamberlain, San Francisco; backcourt, Jerry West, Los Angeles; Len Wilkens, St. Louis; Guy Rodgers, San Francisco, and Ohl.

Concannon Wins Top BC Trophy

BOSTON (UPI) — Senior quarterback Jack Concannon, who personally accounted for 198 points during his three-season career, Thursday night was named the winner of Boston College's top athletic award, the Scanlon Memorial Trophy. Concannon, a Boston resident, passed for 22 touchdowns and scored 11 more during a three-season rampage at the expense of Boston College opponents. He passed for 2,906 yards and averaged 3.1 yards per carry himself. The trophy goes annually to the senior football player outstanding in scholarship, leadership and athletic ability as elected in balloting by school officials and coaches.

Team Stops At LaVale Enroute To Morgantown

Members of the Furman University basketball squad, who arrived late in Morgantown for their game with West Virginia University last night following a series of delays, had their "pre-game" meal in LaVale.

Furman had chartered a plane to bring the Paladins to Morgantown from Greenville, S. C., but bad weather forced cancellation of that plan.

The squad boarded a train for Washington at 3:20 a.m. yesterday. It arrived three hours late in the Capitol and the Paladins missed connections that were to take them to Grafton, W. Va., near Morgantown.

Team officials then elected to take a chartered bus to Morgantown from Washington.

The squad arrived in Cumberland about 6 p.m. and had dinner at Howard Johnson's Restaurant on Route 40. They expected to arrive at Morgantown about 7:45, or 15 minutes before game time.

At 8 o'clock, Furman officials called Morgantown, saying the team was at nearby Uniontown and would not arrive until about 8:30.

But driving conditions were worse than had been anticipated, and the Paladins didn't arrive at the Fieldhouse until about 8:45, greeted by cheers from a small turnout of about 2,500 fans. The WVU student body is still on vacation.

Despite the long trip, the Furman cagers came through with a 65-57 victory over the Mountaineers.

'Savage Routs Huskies, 81-48

Win Is Indians' Fifth Straight

Mt. Savage High School's Indians, readying for tonight's WMIL debut, romped to an 81-48 decision over Northern High School last night at Accident.

The victory was the fifth in a row for the Indians, who opened their league campaign tonight against defending champion Allegany at Campobello.

Leading by only three points (18-15) at the first period break, the Indians got hot in the following frame and ran up a 44-26 halftime edge.

Bobby Robertson paced the attack with 12 field goals and 25 points. Ralph Wilson added 13 and Terry Crabtree collected ten tallies. Eleven Mt. Savage players figured in the scoring.

George Edwards and Colin McGraw shared 23 points for the Huskies, who suffered their seventh straight setback.

BALTIMORE (AP) — George Bamberger was appointed Thursday as the first minor league pitching instructor of the Baltimore Oriole organization.

The 38-year-old Bamberger pitched for 18 seasons without being able to make it in the majors. He had three opportunities with the New York Giants and Orioles and in 11 appearances had a 0-0 record.

Bamberger, who has lived in the Oakland-San Francisco area for years, will move back to his boyhood area on Staten Island, N.Y., for his Oriole assignment.

Garden May Form Own TV Network

Would Continue Weekly Fights

NEW YORK (AP) — If the American Broadcasting Co. goes through with its plans to drop the weekly Friday night boxing show from television, Madison Square Garden may form its own network and continue the series.

"That's a very definite possibility," Garden spokesman John F. X. Condon said Thursday.

"There's no reason why we shouldn't or couldn't. The New York Giants did it very successfully. We could do it cheaper than the big networks and make a go of it."

Condon emphasized, however, that the whole matter "is still in the talking stage. We still haven't been notified by the network of any planned change."

The contract for the weekly boxing shows extends through September, but the network recently announced that it was dropping the show, "in the new season, that is, 1964."

The network, in its announcement, said the show may be dropped as early as April, possibly to be replaced by another sports show.

"The option for renewal is in March," Condon said. "That's the reason they're talking about April. They can drop it anytime they want, but they have to pay us through September."

The weekly fight show has been a fixture since 1943 — the longest continuous sponsored show on television — and the anticipated loss of revenue has been a "CBS pulled out of it some time ago," Condon recalled, "and I don't know whether NBC would be interested. So what else is there?"

"There's a possibility the Garden could form its own network and continue the series. I'd say it's a definite possibility."

Gillette, the sponsor on ABC, doesn't want out. It's a power play by ABC, involving some commitments and a lot of money they have tied up in football."

Giardello Named Boxer Of Year

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Battlemaster Joey Giardello, who scored a major upset in winning the middleweight crown from Dick Tiger last month, was tapped as boxer of the year Thursday by the World Boxing Association.

Giardello, who also was named boxer of the month as a result of his Dec. 7 win, beat out heavyweight champion Sonny Liston and bantamweight king Eder Jofre for the year-end honors. Liston and Jofre tied for second place.

The WBA named Angelo Dundee, as manager of the year. Included among his fighters are Cassius Clay, featherweight champion Sugar Ramos, light-heavyweight champion Willie Pastrano, former welterweight champion Luis Rodriguez and former junior welterweight champion Ralph Dupas.

NFL Players Group Recommends Hornung, Karras Be Reinstated

Petition Adopted Unanimously, Goes To League Office

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press International Sports Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (UPI) — The National Professional Football League Players Association recommended unanimously Thursday that Paul Hornung of the Green Bay Packers and Alex Karras of the Detroit Lions, suspended last February for gambling, be reinstated.

Pete Retzlaff of the Philadelphia Eagles, president of the players association, said the petition for reinstatement of the two suspended players would be forwarded immediately to League Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

"We think that they have served their punishment, recognized they made a mistake and are in a position to be a credit to themselves, their teams and the league," Retzlaff said. "We feel that if they are not reinstated, another year out of action might preclude their ever getting back into competitive shape and kill their careers."

Retzlaff said that as he understood the suspensions, imposed by Rozelle without formally revealing why Hornung and Karras were suspended, the players could not be considered for reinstatement until a full year of suspension.

"This means that Rozelle probably could not consider our petition until February," the Eagle player announced.

Contacted at Miami Beach later, Rozelle confirmed that the Hornung-Karras cases could not be reviewed until February under terms of the "indefinite suspensions" imposed on the two players.

The petition for reinstatement was adopted unanimously by Retzlaff, Vice President Bernie Parrish of the Cleveland Browns, Secretary-Treasurer John Reger of the Pittsburgh Steelers and representatives from each club except the Detroit Lions. Retzlaff explained that the Lions representative had not arrived due to travel conditions. In other actions, the association voted to seek representation on the NFL pension board, seek revision in the league's forfeiture clause and establish a disciplinary action is necessary formation of such a committee but it has other shortcomings," he said.

He said the players felt a "necessity" of dealing more directly with the owners and will try to solicit their support individually for disciplinary action is necessary formation of such a committee but it has other shortcomings," he said.

Third Party In Parrilli Slaying Turns Self In, Is Not Charged

Claims Gun Victim Began Beating Him Without Warning

By ED SAINSBURY

United Press International
CHICAGO (UPI)—The third party involved in the fatal shooting of former football star Tony Parrilli turned himself in to state attorney William J. Bauer Thursday and was released without charge after questioning.

Raymond Messmaker, 33, of suburban Palos Heights, admitted that he had been involved in a scuffle with former Illinois star Tony Parrilli before the latter was shot fatally in the men's room of the bowling lanes owned partially by Chicago's Bear Stearns & Co. in suburban Willowbrook.

Both the DuPage county grand jury and the National Football League have scheduled investigations of the affair. Parrilli was shot by a bullet discharged from the gun of Willowbrook Police Chief Robert Winters, when the latter struck Bears fullback Joe Maroon over the head with the weapon.

Winters said he was trying to separate Parrilli and Messmaker, unidentified previously.

Messmaker called Bauer shortly after 11 a.m. Thursday and met with him about two hours later for interrogation.

Bauer and Chief Deputy Elmer Rosin of the county police said Messmaker admitted he "had quite a bit to drink," and was "sick" in the washroom.

But he said that he didn't needle Parrilli about the Bears' Sunday victory over the New York Giants to win the National Football League championship.

"Parrilli slammed me up against the wall and started beating me," he said. "I turned my back trying to avoid the blows, and didn't throw a punch at all."

"Then I heard somebody come into the washroom and I heard a noise which I now know was a shot, but it didn't sound like a shot."

"I saw Parrilli on the floor with somebody bending over him, and I got scared and left. I walked into the hall and found my wife, and we left."

Messmaker said that in discussion of the incident on the Swedish heavyweights' way home, his party turned around twice to go back to the bowling alley, but finally decided to go home. He decided to turn himself in after reading of the incident in the papers.

Bauer said no formal charges had been placed against Messmaker and that he didn't expect any, but that he planned for Messmaker to testify before the grand jury together with police officers and other Bear players who were present. Maroon, Ditka and Ed O'Banion. Bauer said Messmaker had two banged up eyes, a split lip and two loose front teeth. He complained that Parrilli began hitting him without warning and that he fell to the floor.

His recollections, Bauer said, were "relatively vague."

Commissioner Pete Rozelle said in Miami, Fla., that the NFL will investigate the shooting "as a matter of routine as in the case of anything affecting the league."

Tittle Out Of Pro Bowl

Injury Forces His Withdrawal

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Quarterback Y. A. Tittle of the New York Giants Thursday withdrew from the Jan. 12 Pro Bowl Game at Memorial Coliseum because of a knee injury sustained in the National Football League playoff game Dec. 20.

Tittle called Coach Alie Sherman of the Giants Thursday for an examination of his knee by a doctor at New Orleans that confirmed torn ligaments that suffered in the losing efforts against the Chicago Bears.

"My heart was set on playing, I love the game," Tittle told his coach. "But I feel personally I'll have to withdraw."

Tittle said his physician informed him that he could not work out for at least another week and this precluded his participating in the contest.

Charlie Johnson of the St. Louis Cardinals also was chosen for the game and other quarterbacks snared ballots were Frank Ryan of the Cleveland Browns and Norman Snead of the Washington Redskins.

Johnson said he was "pleased" to be selected and that he would be ready to play if Tittle were to withdraw.

Puerto Rican Middleweights In "Title Bout"

Gonzalez Meets Torres At Garden

NEW YORK (UPI)—Speedy Jose Gonzalez and slugger Jose Torres will fight at Madison Square Garden Friday night for the middleweight championship of Puerto Rico in a televised 10-rounder.

Despite their contrasting styles, betting is at "even money" between these two Puerto Rico-born 160-pounders.

For the muscular and explosive Torres, this fight ends his six-year "war" with Madison Square Garden and it marks his first TV and Garden bout.

Torres, 27 and long-time stablemate of former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson under manager Gus D'Amato, broke away from D'Amato and arranged Friday's fight independently — "although D'Amato is still my manager," Jose explained.

D'Amato has been feuding with the Garden ever since Patterson became heavyweight champion in 1956.

In order for Torres, current champion of Puerto Rico, to convince Gonzalez that he should accept this "title fight," he had to give Gonzalez his $5,000 TV purse — bringing Gonzalez's pay to $10,000. Torres will receive 50 per cent of the net gate a purse which may or may not approach $10,000.

Gonzalez, 23, comes from Arto, P. R., about 45 miles north-east of Ponce, Torres' hometown.

In his latest bout on Oct. 5, Gonzalez lost a split decision to welterweight champion Emile Griffith in a non-title 10-rounder at San Juan, P.R.

That defeat snapped Gonzalez's winning string at six straight and left his record at 26-8-1, including only six knockouts. He was stopped twice.

Torres had only two fights in 1963. He suffered his first kayo defeat when stopped in the fifth round by Cuba's Florentino Fernandez. He came back later to outpoint Don Fullmer, brother of former middleweight champion Gene Fullmer.

Palmer Favored To Retain Los Angeles Open Crown

Most Of 1963's Leading Money Winners In Event

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The mad, mad race for money on golf's golden tour for 1964 opens Friday on the Rancho course when play opens in the $50,000 Los Angeles Open tournament.

Defending champion Arnold Palmer, as usual, plays the favorite's role in a tournament that has attracted 44 of the 50 leading money winners of 1963.

As if the Rancho course, a municipal layout, wasn't tough enough, vandals carved up 10 greens on Sunday night to ruin any chances for good putting rounds.

"They've done a good job of repairing them," says Ray Floyd, the rookie star of 1963, "but they still are going to be bumpy. It was a shame."

Palmer, 15 pounds heavier than he was when he finished the tour in 1963, hadn't played golf for more than six weeks when he came to Los Angeles on Monday.

"I feel strong as a bull," he says. "But I don't know what I'll be able to do on the golf course."

He has been practicing every day and has been clouting here—Tony Lema, Bill Baird, with the finals slated for booming shots off the tees, Al Casper, Doug Ford, Gene Littl—Monday.

Holding four high cards, South had the ingredients for a direct raise to game, but his partner's opening two no trump bid, with a five card major suit, he properly decided first to test the possibility of playing a suit contract by bidding three spades. North raised South to four spades.

Market Begins New Year Just Under Record High

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market began the new year with a high of 179.88. Utilities dipped moving within a hairsbreadth of 0.46 to 138.53. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index also hit a new 1963-64 high—rising 0.41 to 75.43.

Trading lagged at 4,670,000 shares compared with the 6,730,000 shares in the record Dec. 31 session.

G. D. Searle topped the market in activity in its first day of trading on the "big board." It rose to 84 on a turnover of 181,500 shares. The stock was quoted at 70 1/2 asked on the over-the-counter market Tuesday.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Soybean prices declined under scattered liquidation on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At first, however, wheat was unchanged to off 1/2 cent to 1 1/2 cents; corn, 1/2 cent to 1 1/2 cents; soybeans, 1/2 cent to 1 1/2 cents.

The decline also stemmed from scattered liquidation and some cash house selling, and the break drew support from a slow market with prices hovering near the previous close.

Initial trading in December contract was 100 contracts at midday over the September price.

Corn was marked by heavy selling, attributed to an active floor trader and a decline in quiet trading.

Mutual Funds

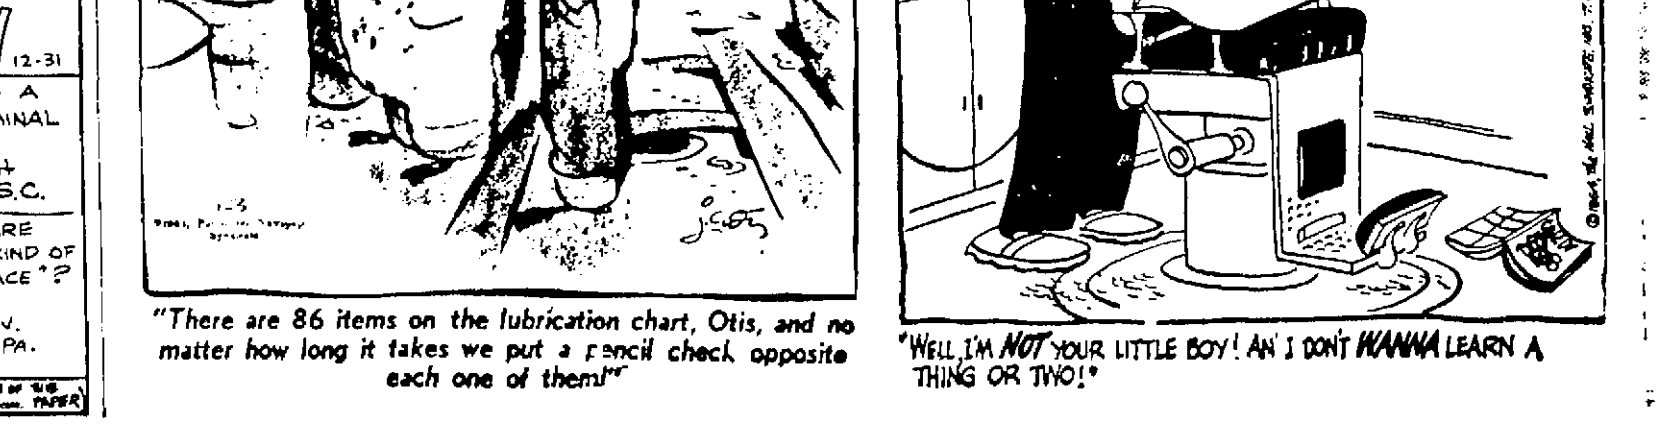

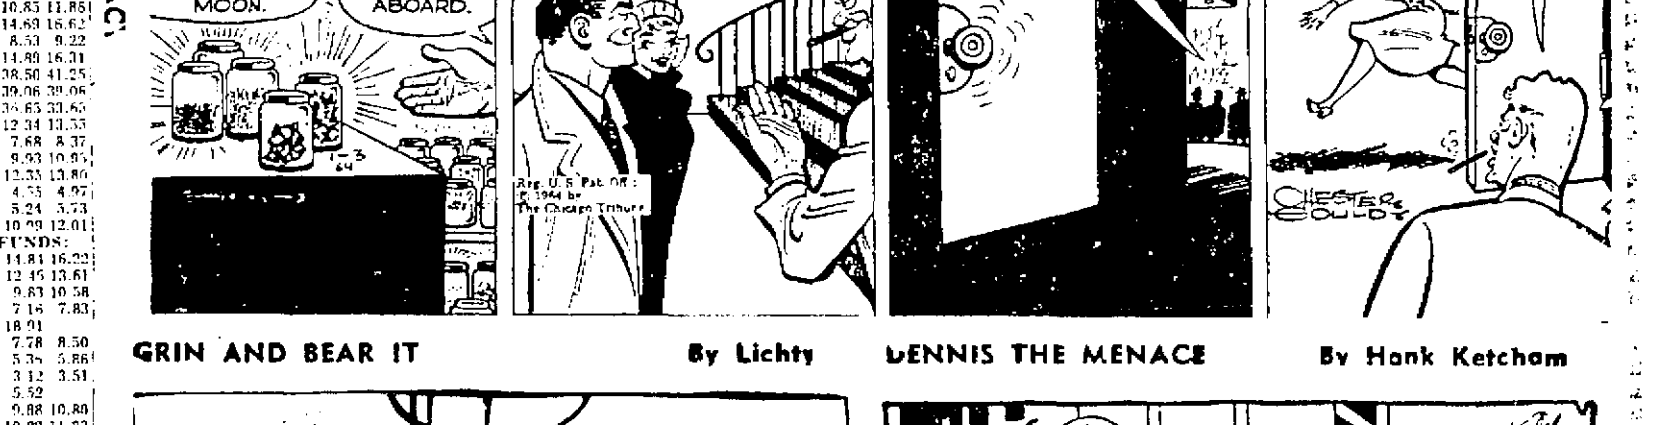

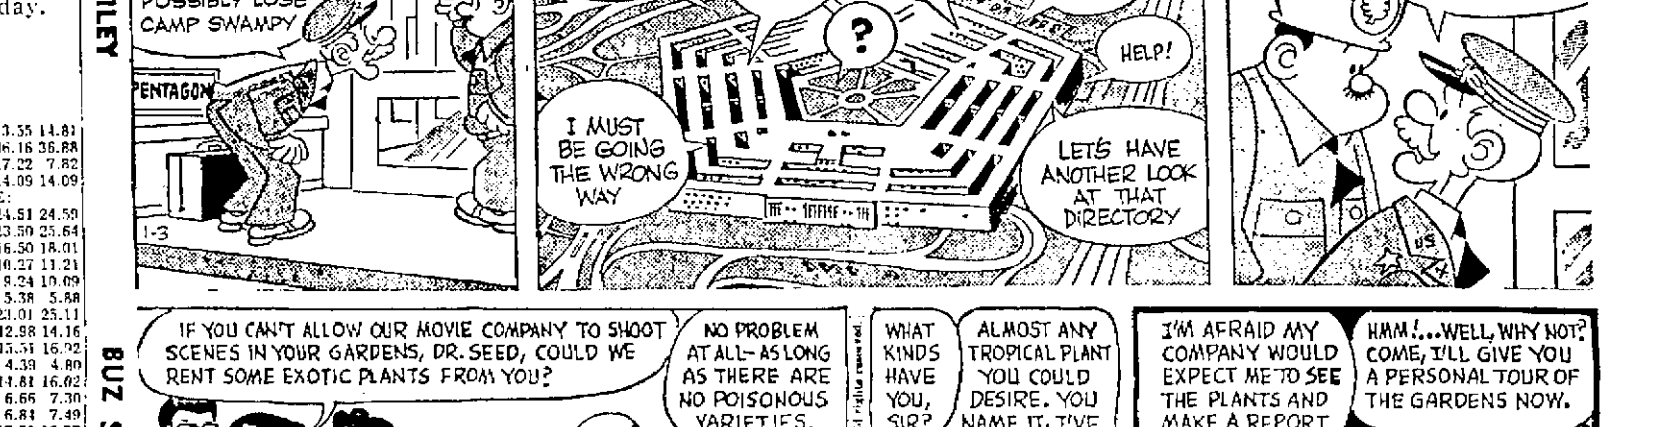

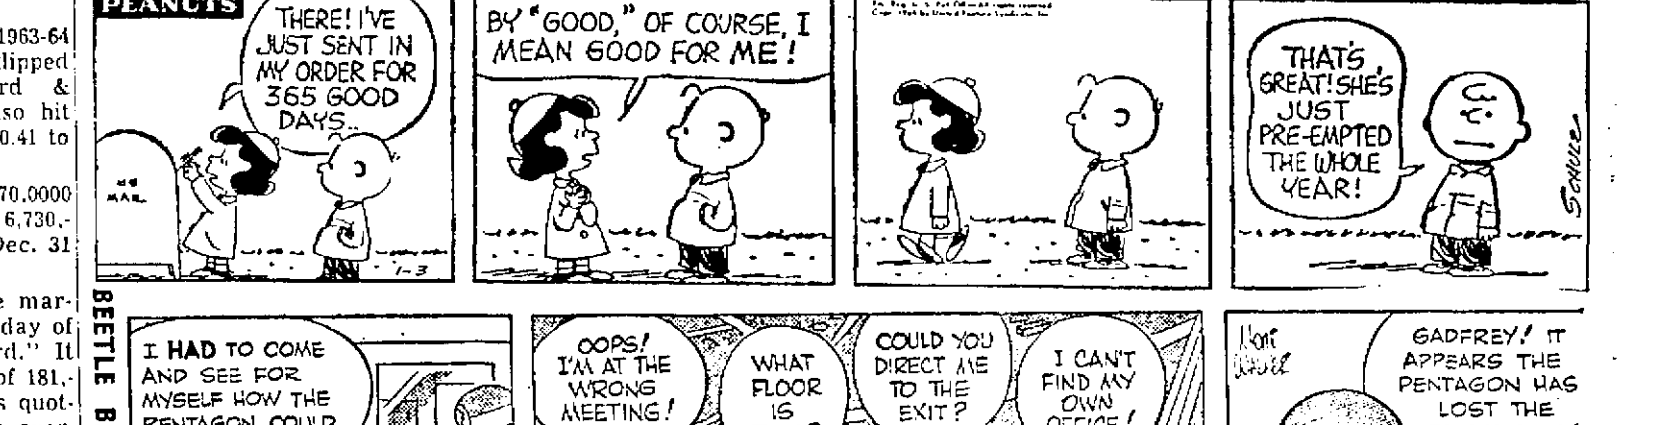

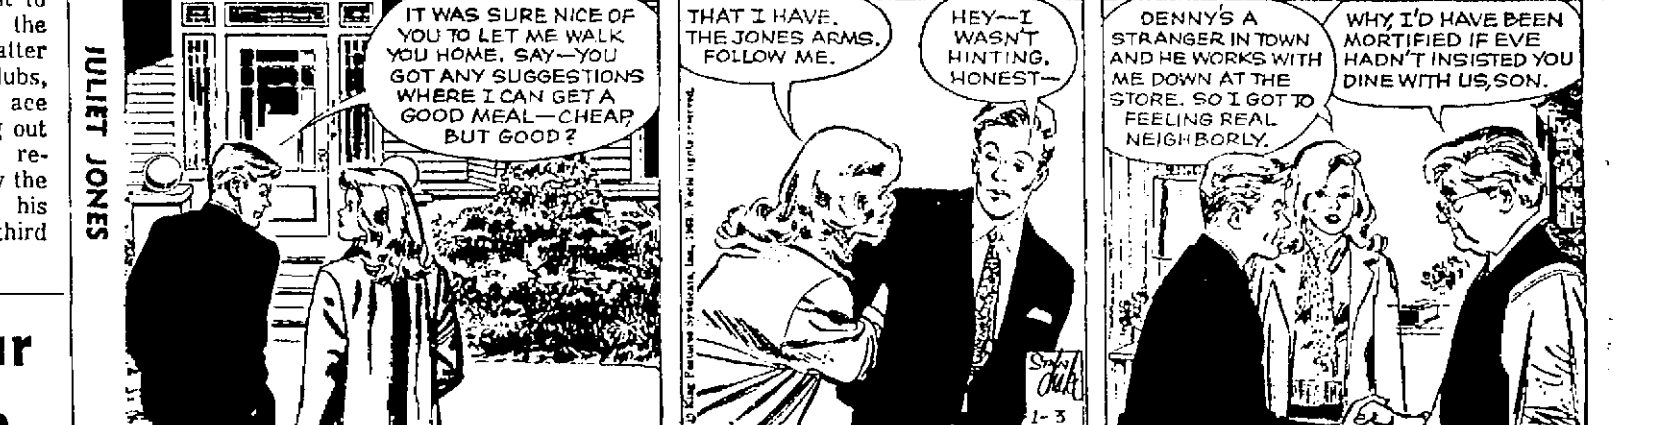

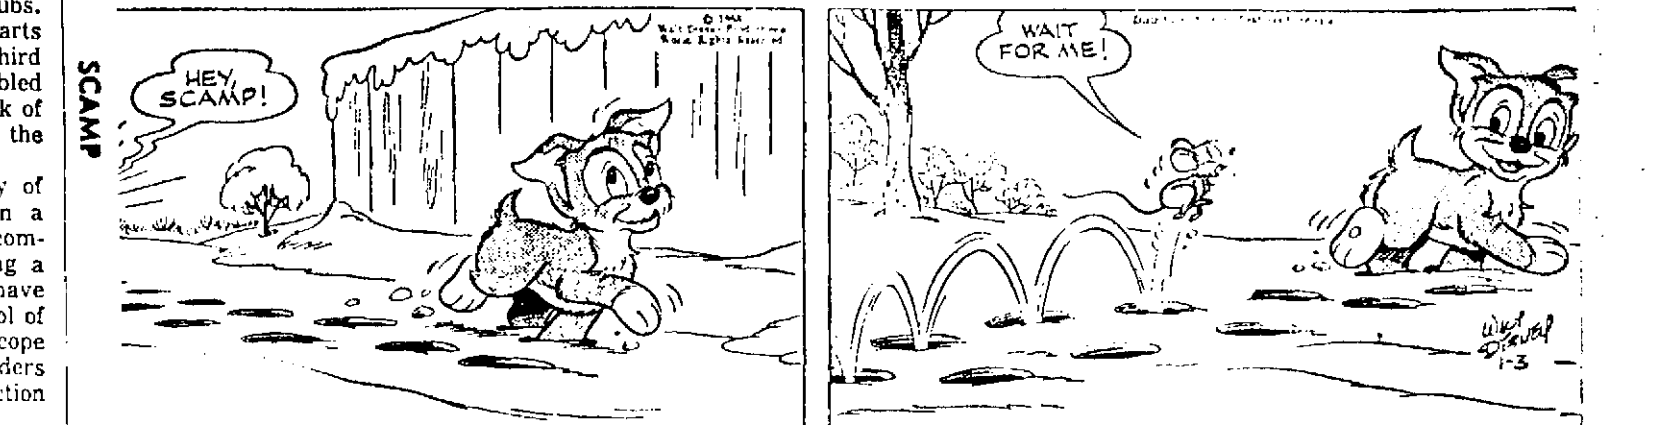

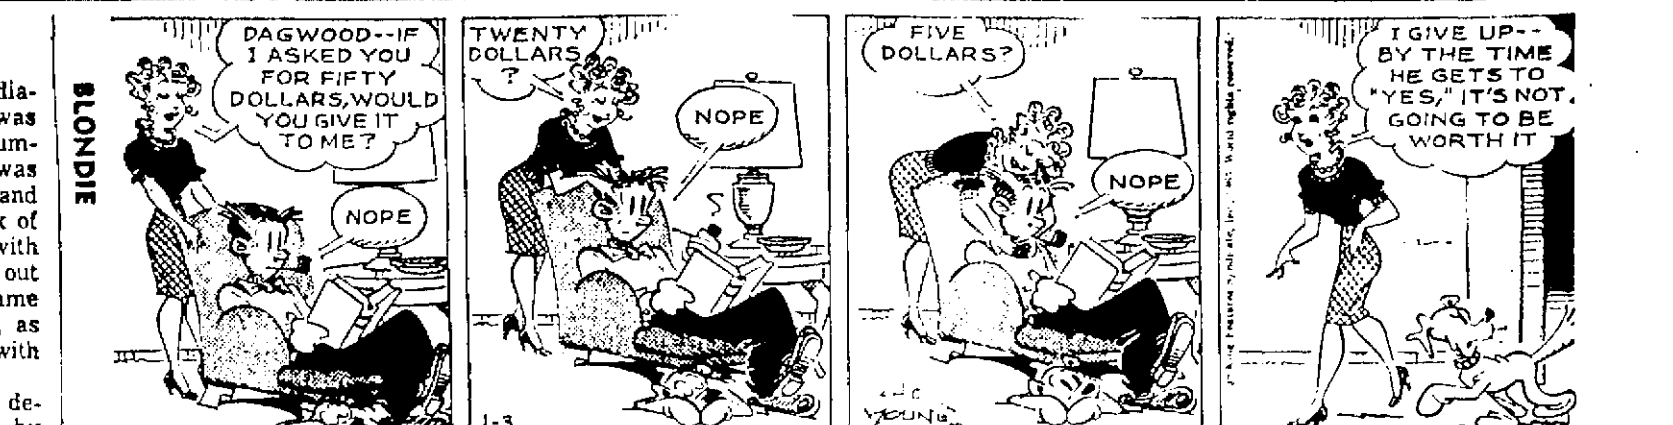

NEW YORK (UPI)—Investment funds began the new year with a high of 179.88. Utilities dipped moving within a hairsbreadth of 0.46 to 138.53. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index also hit a new 1963-64 high—rising 0.41 to 75.43.

Finnigan's Hollywood

BY JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Bob Fulmer is an ex-stuntman who has always insisted on doing his own rough and tumble work when he became an actor.

Doctors took the cast off his broken leg recently. He should be off his crutches in about three weeks.

Bob, co-star of the old "Laramie" series, is a regular on "Wagon Train," at least until he broke his right leg seven weeks ago.

"I broke it in a stunt fight on the set," said Bob at his home, where he is convalescing. "It was a pretty intricate fight, up in the air and down on a table. I caught my foot on the top of a chair as I was coming down. I'd been thrown over a guy's shoulder and my right leg got busted in three places."

They packed Bob off to the hospital, put a cast on the injured limb and sent him home to recuperate. "Wagon Train" rolled on.

The train only stopped long enough to send a recording crew up to Fulmer's house. He had to record 80 lines for the show in which he starred before the accident.

"I'll be out of about five episodes which isn't so bad," he said.

"When I get back we'll have about seven more to do and I'll be in some of them."

Stuntmen enjoy a unique reputation in Hollywood. Besides a multitude of busted bones, they also have a reputation as fearless fellows who fall off horses, trees, houses or curbstones, any feat an actor won't do.

Some actors are kitternish about doing anything requiring physical effort. That's where the stuntmen come to Hollywood's rescue. He protects the star's thin skin.

Fulmer did that for years before donning greasepaint and becoming an actor. They might have taken Bob off the set, but they couldn't take the stunts out of Bob. He always wants to do his own work.

Still does.

"I think they might be a little worried about it," he said of his show's producers. "But I've been doing this stuff for 10 or 11 years. This was an accident. We did the stunt once and it worked fine. But I wanted to do it over again I've never been hurt before. I always set up the stunts so I won't get hurt or the guy I'm working with won't get hurt."

Since he was injured, Bob has been visited by the "Wagon Train" cast members. His confinement is a forced vacation, one which he's wanted for some time.

"It's been the greatest thing that's ever happened to me," he joked. "I haven't had a vacation in five years. My wife is taking good care of me."

Cincy Royals Edge Pistons

Hawkins Sparkles In 112-111 Battle

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI)—Ball-hawking Tom Hawkins' spectacular second half defensive work helped the Cincinnati Royals pull out a 112-111 victory over the Detroit Pistons in a foul-plagued game Thursday night at the University of Dayton fieldhouse.

Hawkins, who had 11 rebounds and numerous steals, pilfered the inbound pass to set up the game-winning basket by Wayne Embry with nine seconds left.

After the Royals had trailed most of the fourth quarter, Hawkins blocked a Bailey Howell shot and set up a three-point play by Jerry Lucas at 3:52 to push Cincinnati ahead 103-102. The Royals extended their lead to 107-102, but four straight Pistons baskets, one a three-point play by Ray Scott, seemingly clinched the game for Detroit, 111-108, with 20 seconds left.

Then Oscar Robertson drove for a Cincinnati basket and Hawkins later stole Don Ohl's inbound pass to turn the tide for the Royals.

Howell paced Detroit with 33 points, 24 in the first half, and 17 rebounds, while Robertson topped Cincinnati with 32 points. Robertson missed a free throw in the third period to end his streak at 41, a new Royal team record.

Embry had 21 points, and he and Lucas each grabbed 17 rebounds in a bruising game which saw 30 personals called on each team.

Ranger Coach Fined For Urging Violence

MONTREAL (AP)—President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League announced Thursday he has fined Coach Red Sullivan of the New York Rangers $200 for encouraging violence during a game in Montreal Dec. 12 between the Rangers and the Montreal Canadiens.

Campbell said there was a "declaration of immunity" by Sullivan to one of his players to the effect that the player personally would not have to pay any automatic fine.

Campbell said the involved players were Henri Richard of Montreal and Vic Hadfield of New York, who engaged in "a brief stick-swinging duel for which they were penalized."

Panthers Tounce Dartmouth, 107-63

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The Pitt Panthers rebounded from two straight defeats in the Los Angeles Classic by overwhelming winless Dartmouth 107-63 at the Field House Thursday night.

The Panthers held a 47-35 halftime edge then outscored the Indians 60-28 in the second half mainly on a fast break with Cal Sheffield doing most of the scoring.

Sheffield finished with 17 points, 14 in the second half. Sophomore Bob Lovett led the Panthers with 26 points followed by Dave Sauer with 21. Pitt is 5-4 so far this season.

For Dartmouth, winless in seven games, Dave Blain was high with 26 points.

NCAA To Honor WVU Coach Harrick

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (UPI)—West Virginia University baseball and wrestling Coach Steve Harrick will be honored in New York City Sunday as NCAA District 3 baseball coach of the year.

The affair, held by the American Association of College Baseball Coaches, will honor Harrick for guiding WVU to its third straight Southern Conference championship and 30 victories last season.

It was the best record ever recorded in baseball at West Virginia.

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 340 "For the genius to write these things, I would gladly give up my office," Abraham Lincoln was quoted as remarking to Sen. Charles Sumner one day about "The Nasby Papers."

Those were a series of sketches put into vernacular language and phonetic spelling by David Ross Locke, a young Ohioan. Under the influence of a spell-binding Democrat congressman, Clement L. Vallandigham, Ohio was a hotbed of "Copperheads" in 1863. During their wrath, the editor of the Findlay Jeffersonian, 30-year-old Locke made these Northern opponents of the Lincoln administration the subjects of merciless satire. His (and figuratively their) spokesman was an oily political opportunist, "Petroleum Vesuvius Nasby."

The "Letters" were copied or quoted by loyal Union newspapers throughout the North, and made Nasby a byword. They eclipsed the attention won by Charles Farrar Browne as humorous commentator in the figurative person of Artemus Ward and Seba Smith as Andrew Jackson's "Advisor," Maj. Jack Downing.

Lincoln liked to quote Artemus Ward. On Sept. 22, 1862, he opened a Cabinet meeting by reading a chapter from the latest volume of Ward's accounts of adventures as a "lecturer." The president finished with a hearty laugh, then turned soberly to discussion of an epochal decision he had reached: to issue an Emancipation Proclamation.

However, Lincoln came to appreciate and cite "The Nasby Papers" more.

It is difficult to choose excerpts from the latter indicative of their acid and penetrating quality. The interested reader will find their full flavor in a collection, "The Struggle of Petroleum V. Nasby," newly published in paperback (Beacon Press) with stimulating notes.

Locke moved to the Toledo Blade in 1865, and wrote letters which made Nasby a petty federal official-holder who personified the obstructionists of a genuine reconstruction of the South. —CLARK KINNAIRD

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 341 Vicksburg and Gettysburg were not as consequential reversals for the Confederacy as the defeat of its efforts to maintain its credit in Europe. After mid-1863, the government in Richmond had serious difficulties in securing loans or credits abroad for buying and fitting out blockade-runners and obtaining arms and other material.

Cotton was as good as money, with Europe disposed to take every bale that could be run through the blockade. But a U.S. Supreme Court decision in 1863 upheld the legality of Union Navy seizure of cotton from neutral ships as contraband. The Union Navy's blockade of Confederate shipping was more effective each month. Consequently, fewer and fewer bales flowed abroad for redemption of the cotton loans floated in 1861 and 1862.

For a cotton loan in 1863, the Confederacy had to accept steeper terms. In a deal with the Erlanger banking house in Paris, the Davis administration agreed to sale of $15,000,000 in bonds at 80% of par, with interest at 7%. These were secured as redeemable in either cotton or cash, at the buyer's option, over a twenty-year period. They were deliberately made attractive to speculators by a clause fixing six-pence a pound as the redemption value of the bonds in cotton. This was less than a third of the market price then in London.

The issue was oversubscribed, but, within a few weeks, the bonds were in decline as a reaction to the decision of H. M. Government, under pressure of public opinion, to block delivery of steam warships built at Birkenhead by the Laird company to protect Confederate commerce (and raid Union shipping).

Confederate agents spent an estimated $6,000,000 to bolster the market for the bonds. The Confederate government benefitted less than $3,000,000 from the $15,000,000 bond issue.

However, even after further reverses for the Confederates, European bankers remained agreeable to further loans—on, of course, much steeper terms.

No. 342 Imagine yourself in the position of Francis Lieber a century ago. He, a professor of political science at Columbia University, had been called upon to be adviser on military and international law to Secretary of War Stanton and President Lincoln. Lieber had fought in the Prussian army and served as a volunteer in the Greek war of independence, before emigrating to the United States.

Prof. Lieber had sons in both the Union and Confederate armies. His Confederate son was killed in action.

Lieber was the author of General Order No. 100, issued in 1863 as guidance to Union soldiers. The 97 articles of the document were later adopted by the English, French and Germans and became a part of the so-called law of nations.

The Order, entitled "Instructions for the Government of Armies of the United States in the Field," related basic moral precepts to the code of war. Stress was placed on the importance of avoiding all unnecessary suffering and of preserving the material and spiritual assets of civilization. Hospitals, museums, libraries, churches, and charitable institutions were to be spared, and medical workers and army chaplains were not to be considered prisoners of war unless they decided to remain with their captured comrades. All prisoners were to be fed "plain wholesome food and treated with humanity."

Lieber had left the University of South Carolina for Columbia in 1856 because of his disapproval of the South Carolinians' stand on slavery and his belief that Carolina hotbeds were precipitating a disastrous civil war.

He wrote on civil liberty, penology, deaf-mute education and free trade, and he published one of the earliest commentaries in the U. S. A. on the radical propositions to which Karl Marx and the latter's mentor, Friedrich Engels, were seeking converts from other religions. Lieber titled it, pithily, "Individualism vs. Socialism or Communism." CLARK KINNAIRD

Civic Center Grants Contract To Nilon For Fight Telecast

BALTIMORE (AP)—Jack Nilon, an advisor to Heavyweight champion Sonny Liston, was awarded a contract Thursday to use the Baltimore Civic Center for closed circuit televising of the fight with Cassius Clay Feb. 25.

Nilon, who also has the concession for food and drinks at the municipal center, will pay the city a minimum of $1,100 or 10 per cent of gross receipts up to $2,500.

The normal rental for the center is a maximum $5,000. But the city board of estimates allowed Nilon reduced rate because he will have to pay for rescheduling of an American Hockey League game.

The civic center will seat more than 13,000 for the telecasting of the fight between Liston and Clay in Miami.

Fund Drive Begins For Family Here

Donations Accepted At Local Businesses

A fund drive has been started by neighbors of the Charles E. Weisenmiller family of 434 Arch Street, a member of which died Monday of asphyxiation due to a fire which caused extensive damage to their home.

The campaign has mushroomed throughout South Cumberland and donations will be accepted at a number of business places where posters have been placed by neighbors.

When informed of the drive yesterday, Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan said he and Police Chief B. Frank Gaffney wholeheartedly support the drive and remarked that donations will be accepted at the police station.

A funeral service was held yesterday morning in St. Mary's Catholic Church for Jeffrey L. Weisenmiller, eight, who died in Memorial Hospital. An older sister, Joan, 15, and a brother, William, 12, also were admitted to the hospital due to smoke inhalation.

The neighbors said there will be no door-to-door canvass and that donations will be accepted at the following business places:

Cumberland Electric Company, 137 Virginia Avenue; Cumberland Savings Bank, Ben Franklin Store, Coyle's Market, Garrett's Clothing Store, Genevieve's Beauty Salon, the Kech Drug Stores, held at 7:30 p. m. Pennsylvanians Married Here In First Civil Rites

Leonard Charles Schuette, 21, of 437 Chestnut Street, McKeesport, Pa., and Joan Kathleen Wolf, 19, 3010 Freeland Avenue, McKeesport, unknowingly made history of sorts at the Allegany County Court House here yesterday afternoon.

They got a marriage license at 3:05 p. m. yesterday and about five minutes later Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court, was performing the first civil marriage ceremony in the nearly 173-year history of the court.

A 1963 act of the General Assembly in Annapolis made it legal for clerks of Circuit Courts in Maryland to perform civil marriage ceremonies. This act, which became effective New Year's Day, put Maryland in step with the other 49 American states which already permitted civil marriage ceremonies. Because of the holiday, yesterday was the first day that the new law could be utilized.

The young McKeesport man and woman, both Roman Catholics, had planned a big church wedding in McKeesport February 8. Then Mr. Schuette, who has been majoring in interior decorating at Duquesne University while holding down an eight-hour-a-day job on the side, got orders to be inducted into the Army.

They still want the church wedding but they did get permission from the Bishop of Pittsburgh to come to Cumberland and be married in a civil ceremony. Although the marriage license clerk, Mrs. Gusten H. Linaburg, has made a practice of instructing prospective newlyweds that they must be married by clergy, they must not have heard her words when they were here a few days ago.

After getting the 21st marriage license issued in the new year, the young man and woman asked where the nearest justice of the peace was.

It was then that the new law was explained to them. Mr. Boden, with Mrs. Linaburg as the only witness, went to the main court room on the second floor of the Court House and in a few minutes the young Pennsylvanians were Mr. and Mrs. Schuette.

Their wedding at 3:10 p. m. took place nearly six hours after one in the Anna Arundel County Court House at Annapolis. Robert L. Wright III and Miss Patricia Arenor were married at 9:18 a. m. (Continued on Page 17)

Mrs. Loretta Orndorff, 53, underwent minor surgery in Memorial Hospital last night for a fractured wrist after slipping on the ice outside her home.

She is reported to be in "good" condition by hospital attaches.

The Allegany Instrument Company, Division of Tevtron Electronics Inc., city, has announced the appointment of J. and J. Associates Inc., Waltham, Mass., as its authorized sales representative in New England.

The Social Welfare Workers Luncheon Group, representing various area social agencies, will have a luncheon meeting at the Fort Cumberland Hotel on Wednesday at 12:30 p. m.

J. Goodloe Jackson, president of the Allegany County Board of Education, will address the group on the problem of high school dropouts, and a general discussion will follow, concerning how the participating agencies may work to alleviate the condition.

Mrs. Jennie Grahame, president of the group and administrator of the Allegany County Health Department, will preside.

The Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners will hold a hearing at 10 a. m. today in the main court room at the Court House on remonstrances on two applications for beer licenses.

One involves Murphy's One-Stop which wants to transfer its Class D beer license from near Willowbrook Road to 300 South Centre Street. The other is the application of Patricia and Leroy Michaels for a Class A off-sale beer license at Leroy's Grocery in Narrows Park.

32.9 Per Cent Of Seniors Plan College

Survey Shows Allegany Ahead

Almost one-third of the 1307 seniors in eight public high schools of Allegany County are planning to attend college somewhere next September.

Jack A. Petry, supervisor of high schools, said he was asked to obtain the information pertaining to this county schools by a research group from Montgomery, Ala., which was doing a national survey on college education plans of high school seniors.

Mr. Petry reported that 32.9 per cent of the 1307 seniors, 258 boys and 173 are now planning to enroll in some college in September. At Oldtown High School five boys and five girls are planning college. In all of the other seven schools more boys than girls are interested in college next September.

Allegany High School is the county leader with 160, 84 boys and 76 girls, or 45.5 per cent of a class of 352. Next is Beall High School with 76, 49 boys and 27 girls, or 39.2 per cent of a class of 194. Third place is held down by Oldtown High School with 10, five boys and five girls, in a class of 27. Fourth is Mt. Savage High School with 26, 19 boys and seven girls, or 23.3 per cent of a class of 92 seniors.

The other schools are Fort Hill High School with 105, 61 boys and 44 girls, or 37.9 per cent of a class of 377; Bruce High School with 25, 16 boys and nine girls, or 22.9 per cent of a class of 109; Flintstone High School, with six, five boys and a girl, or 20.7 per cent of a class of 29, and Valley High School with 23, 19 boys and four girls, or 18.1 per cent of a class of 127.

Mr. Petry said he has no comparable figures for last year. He said that 33 1/2 per cent of last year's graduates are furthering their education but that includes nurses training and business schools as well as colleges.

Mr. Young and her husband, John W. Young, also 29, were admitted to Memorial Hospital, where attaches report her in "good" condition and list his condition as "fair."

Mrs. Young sustained severe lacerations of the nose, left eye and right knee and multiple abrasions. Her husband suffered internal injuries, contusion of the eyes and severe laceration of the mouth.

A passenger in the Imes car, Alvin Harden, 18, of Frostburg, was admitted to Miners Hospital, Frostburg, with a compound fracture of the right leg. He is reported in "good" condition.

A structural steelworker, Mr. Imes was born in Mt. Savage, a son of the late William H. and Virginia R. (Wingfield) Imes. His wife, Mrs. Helen (Church) Imes, preceded him in death. Mr. Imes was a veteran of World War II.

Surviving are two brothers, John R. Imes, of RD 1, and Douglas A. Imes, of Klondyke, and a sister, Mrs. Regenia R. Myers, of this city.
